

LIFE IN THE REICH

HITLER'S GERMANY
1933 – 1945

Mike Walsh

MIKE WALSH

Mike Walsh has a reputation for writing in a way that spurns political correctness. The reader will be refreshed and emerge better informed by his easy-going spin-free style of penmanship.

The broadcaster's global reputation and his more than 70 book titles and news stories are often snubbed by palace publishers and court journalists who work in a liberal environment.

Mike's Irish-American father, Patrick had fought in four conflicts by the time he reached 40-years of age: The insurgent war against Britain's Black and Tans. This conflict was followed by The Irish War of Independence. He went on to fight in the most ferocious battles of Spain's Civil War and finally served during WWII as an RAF aircraft fitter / flier.

Patrick was a close associate of American war correspondent, Ernest Hemingway. Mike's father formed an enduring friendship with Ireland's celebrated playwright, Sean O'Casey.

Kathleen, Mike's well-educated mother, who also mentored his writing skills, was a former novice nun and personal friend of Dolores Ibarruri, Spain's firebrand premier during the Spanish Civil War.

Mike retired to Spain after a successful political and business career following a lively life as a world traveller during which time he visited, worked in or lived in over 65 countries.

DEDICATIONS

To Patrick my father with whom I disagreed to a point of estrangement I belatedly realise that he wanted a better world too. He did it in the way he thought right at the time; bravo. To my dear mother Kathleen for encouraging my love of literature and writing. To my apolitical wife who tolerates me. Last but not least I express patriarchal love and regards to our sons.

READERS INVITATION

LIFE IN THE REICH Mike Walsh. From 1933 the German working class enjoyed a lifestyle superior to that of the rich in the West. Hitler's Germany led the world in fashion, medicine, cinema, lifestyle, innovation, manufacturing, transport infrastructure, public facilities, cutting edge science, healthcare and education. Amazon deleted LIFE IN THE REICH because it demolished the victor's narrative.

READ FREE saves you from paying the book's cover price. Michael will send you his bank-to-bank details if you wish to voluntarily transfer or ZELLE a gratuity or make a standing order for as little as £10. Contact Michael at euroman_uk@yahoo.co.uk

FOREWORD

Contrary to the propaganda of the victors of World War II the National Socialist German Workers Party in January 1933 was democratically elected to govern Germany. Within the month, the Party's leader Adolf Hitler publicly vowed to the German people that within four years he would give the German electorate the opportunity to decide if they wished the NSDAP to continue to govern Germany or wished instead to return to the electoral system of the Weimar Republic.

True to his word, the promised plebiscite or referendum in 1936 resulted in an overwhelming majority of electors unequivocally stating their wish for continuity of the National Socialist system of government.

Ironically, when on May 8, 1945, the German armed forces (not the elected government) capitulated to the victorious Allies none of the leaders of the victor nations, Josef Stalin Soviet Union, Winston Churchill, Britain and President Harry Truman of the United States was elected.

For almost eight years, from 1933 to September 1939 but June 1940 allowing for the phoney war, the German nation was at peace. Why has this period of German history been totally removed from all accounts of Hitler's Germany?

Is it because during these nearly eight years or 13.5 years (1933-1945) the re-born revitalised Reich of the National Socialists was transformed into the world's happiest and most prosperous nation? In fact, the quality of life for all in Hitler's Reich has never been remotely enjoyed even by the prosperous middle classes of North America and Europe.

Such was the superiority of lifestyle in Hitler's Germany that all disclosure of life in the Reich from 1933 to 1940 has been intensely removed from history books, movie and television dramas and documentaries, books, media comments and suchlike.

There can be only one reason for this strange anomaly; neither the Communist nor the Capitalist systems wish comparisons to be made with their system of governance with that of the National Socialist system of truly democratic and accountable authority.

If the people since World War II were allowed to see evidence in pictures and words this pencilled out period of history then it is likely the electorate would demand the same freedom offered to them by Adolf Hitler (1889-1945).

The outcome of genuinely democratic elections similar to Germany's 1933 and 1936 plebiscite would presumably be the election and return of the National Socialist system of government, economics and the sovereignty of the peoples in a migrant-free Europe in which bankers' usury and political corruption are eradicated.

It goes without saying that those corrupt and alien to Europe and its peoples' interests' entities who mismanage, bleed dry and oppress the peoples of Europe would be removed from all positions of influence. For this reason, Life in the Reich (1933-1945) must remain a taboo topic.

CAN MEDIA BE TRUSTED

Popular perception of government and palace media is their being nothing short of cheating rogues. Undeniably, the political elite and their media lie about every conflict and vilify every national leader whose country is coveted by the capitalist (piratical) west. Are we really stupid enough to believe their lies about the Workers Reich 1933 – 1945?

Of the world's 221 plus nations, Britain has invaded all but 22 of them. The piratical record of the United States is equally grim. Since 1776, a period spanning 224 years, the U.S. has been at peace for only 21 years.

From its beginnings the USSR boasted of its intention to Bolshevise the world (Comintern). The Soviet Union collapsed in 1991. The Russian Federation is now an independent sovereign nation for the first time since the seizure of Imperial Russia in 1917. Bolshevism, having recovered from the shock of losing its purpose morphed into globalism the aims of which are still Bolshevism. A cesspit by any other name remains a cesspit.

Every country invaded by Britain, US and USSR has beforehand been vilified as a threat to world peace. It says much that the three nations largely responsible for coveting world power are the most vocal in blaming others for doing so.

Mark Twain was smarter than most: “Next the statesmen will invent cheap lies, putting the blame upon the nation that is attacked, and every man will be glad of those conscience-soothing falsities, and will refuse to examine any refutations of them; and thus, he will convince himself that the war is just, and will thank God for the better sleep he enjoys after this process of grotesque self-deception.”

Before we condemn our parents and grandparents for their being duped by media lies about Hitler’s Germany let us reflect that our generation has been deceived too. Afghanistan, 9 / 11, Israeli Occupation of Palestine, Ukraine, Rhodesia, Iraq, Syria, Libya, Iran, North Korea, Russia; the same lies by the same tribes in pursuit of opportunity to satiate bank balances from the blood of the innocent duped.

As you turn the pages of Life in the Reich remember that history repeatedly repeats itself; the same liars, just different victims. In 1933 their crosshairs were fixed on the Reich. Today, fearful that the world is waking up to their falsehoods, the vilification of Hitler’s Germany is now reaching absurd levels. Earlier generations were cheated; don’t let media liars cheat you too.

CONTENTS

1. The Missing Years
2. The Censored Photographs
3. Media Hostile to Europe's Interests
4. Utopia Found and Lost
5. A Last Appeal to Reason
6. The Reich's Self-Sufficiency
7. The Reich on the Road
8. Hitler's True Democracy
9. Every Vote Counted
10. Life in the Reich
11. Hitler's Germany
12. David Lloyd George
13. Protection of Animals
14. Marriage and Children
15. An English Woman Reflects
16. No Reich Racism
17. A German Reflects
18. Plundering the Reich
19. Great Minds Think Alike

CHAPTER 1 THE MISSING YEARS

World War II is the most photographed conflict in history. The problem with victors' propaganda is that images shown are negative towards the defeated enemy. The intention is to show images that reflect badly on the foe.

Of the millions of photographs that record Hitler's Reich it is doubtful if those recycled reflect 5 per cent of the total images captured. A visit to a gallery in which only fraudulent or negative images of the British Empire are displayed is hardly credible and is worthless as a dispassionate lesson in history. One looks in vain for photographs of civilian life in Germany from January 1933 to May 1945.

Adolf Hitler's National Socialist government was elected and formed on January 30, 1933. From that date on the Reich fought off repeated attempts to destroy Germany through economic blockades. Allied attempts to bankrupt debt-free Germany failed just as they fail today in an equally futile attempt to bankrupt the Russian Federation.

The first Declaration of War on Germany was proclaimed by The Jewish World Congress just three weeks following the election of the National Socialist government on January 30, 1933. This obscenity was published by London's Daily Express on March 24, 1933.

It is neither secret nor anti-Semitic to remind ourselves that Jewish control of great corporations, trading blocs and government was and still is omnipotent. In 1933, international Jewry bragged that theirs was the power to bring the National Socialist government to its knees.

The embryo Reich faced a world in which the German nation and people were Airbrushed from the victors' narrative is that Poland had illegally occupied northern Germany since 1922 in direct contravention of the Versailles Treaty. On September 1, 1939, Germany was simply recovering territory illegally taken by the Slav Poles.

Missing from the victors' account is that by September 1939 Germany endured countless attacks on its borders by the militarily superior Poland. During the 1930s, Poland had furthermore encouraged the massacres of ethnic Germans on purloined German territory. (Blomberg Massacres) This we haven't been. The Germans were painfully aware of the injustices suffered.

Eminent British historian A. J. P. Taylor concedes that Hitler fought a defensive war. The Polish High Command never made secret of its intention to invade and occupy the Reich. This stands on record.

The purpose of Germany's pre-emptive strike on September 1, 1939 was to force Poland to the negotiation table. The resolve was that Poland adheres to the terms of the Versailles Treaty and to guarantee the security of the Reich's borders. In such event Germany within 5-weeks would return to the pre-September 1, 1939 borders; peace on earth. Instead, Britain, France and the British and French empires' dominions declared war on Germany. Much of the rest is the victors' version of history.

Peace in Europe did for the large part reign apart from a French invasion and occupation of Germany by France early in 1940 (which we are not told about).

When in spring 1940, Germany was aware that British forces gathered in France intended to attack and occupy Germany; France was pre-emptively occupied by the Reich. Britain's expeditionary force (BEF) was routed and abandoning their military hardware fled to the French Channel and back to Blighty. In disgust, many troops hurled their rifles from the windows of the rail carriages.

Apart from the temporary intended occupation of Poland, Germany, by May 1940, had been at peace for 90 months of its 149-month existence.

GERMAN MEDIA APRIL 20, 1933

“The newspapers today are filled with congratulations for Reich Chancellor Adolf Hitler. The nuances vary, depending on the tone, character, and attitude of the newspaper. All, however, agree on one thing: Hitler is a man of stature who has already accomplished historically important deeds and faces still greater challenges.

“He is the kind of statesman found only rarely in Germany. During his lifetime, he has the good fortune not only to be appreciated and loved by the overwhelming majority of the German people, but even more importantly to be understood by them. He is the only German politician of the post-war period who understood the situation and drew the necessary hard and firm conclusions.

“All the newspapers agree on this. It no longer needs to be said that he has taken up Bismarck’s work and intends to complete it. There is enough proof of this even for those who do not believe, or who think ill of him.

“The newspapers today are filled with congratulations for Reich Chancellor Adolf Hitler. The nuances vary, depending on the tone, character, and attitude of the newspaper. All, however, agree on one thing: Hitler is a man of stature who has already accomplished historically important deeds and faces still greater challenges.

“He is the kind of statesman found only rarely in Germany. During his lifetime, he has the good fortune not only to be appreciated and loved by the overwhelming majority of the German people, but even more importantly to be understood by them. He is the only German politician of the post-war period who understood the situation and drew the necessary hard and firm conclusions.

“All the newspapers agree on this. It no longer needs to be said that he has taken up Bismarck’s work and intends to complete it. There is enough proof of this even for those who do not believe, or who think ill of him.

“I therefore do not think it necessary for me to discuss the historical significance and still unknown impact of this man on the eve of the day on which, far from the bustle of the Reich capital, Adolf Hitler completes his 44th year.

“I feel a much deeper need to personally express my esteem for him and in doing so I believe that I am speaking for many hundreds of thousands of National Socialists throughout the country.

“We shall leave it to those who were our enemies only a few months ago and who then slandered then to praise him today with awkward words and embarrassing pathos. We know how little Adolf Hitler appreciates such attempts, and how much more the devoted loyalty and lasting support of his friends and fellow fighters correspond to his nature. ~ Dr Joseph Goebbels, Reich Minister of Information on Hitler’s Birthday 1933.

CHAPTER 2 THE CENSORED PHOTOGRAPHS

It is almost 80 years since the outbreak of WWII. For today’s generation World War II is as remote as was the 1857 Indian Mutiny to the luckless conscripts who in 1939 were press ganged into war with the German Reich.

Media propoganda against the Reich is more strident today than ever? Victors’ whoopla relates specifically to the brief 4 years 11 months period in which Germany vainly fought defensively against the British Empire, in 1941 the rapacious Soviets and Americans. All Germany’s peace offers were dismissed despite the fact that the war was to yet harvest the lives of 50 million.

This begs the question; if as alleged the Reich was carrying out the holocaust why continue the carnage when they and millions of others might have been saved.

Hitler's peace terms were perfectly reasonable and adjudged so by the international community. The lies of the victors do not stand up to scrutiny.

The six million, since downgraded by erudite scholars to a little over a still dubious 1 million, pales into insignificance when set against the findings of independent research.

“During the 20th century 164 million people were martyred by wars and conflicts largely as a consequence of the Capitalist / Communist alliance. (Journal of Peace Research, Oslo and Hawaii)

Why are these unfortunates never mentioned by media? Perhaps they would be if media was owned by Russians or other victim nations. Is it that one has to be Jewish to qualify for holocaust status and the immense wealth extracted as a consequence of emotional blackmail and compensation for figures in a fictional ledger?

At any dinner engagements ask how many Jews died in WWII and the knee jerk response is ‘six million’. Why? Because they were told so by the same people who told them Saddam Hussein had weapons of mass destruction.

They were told so by the same people who claim Gadhafi, Iran, Nicolas Maduro, Kim Jong-un and Russian President Vladimir Putin threaten world peace. It seems to have escaped the notice of many that those who actually do threaten world peace are the ones who are destroying world peace.

Alexander Solzhenitsyn, the world's greatest dissident, has the answer: “Ownership of the media is in the hands of the perpetrators.”

The Jewish and Capitalist economic war against National Socialist Germany started in March 1933. From that moment on the truth about Hitler's Reich was distorted, suppressed, censored, and fanciful. Mainstream media, the only source of information to the trusting denigrated the German Chancellor, demonised the elected government of the German Reich and vilified the German people.

CHAPTER 3 MEDIA HOSTILE TO EUROPE'S INTERESTS

Media vilification of the Germans portrayed the most grotesque racism in the history of newspapers. No son or daughter of Africa was subjected to as many lies and caricatures as were the Germans. This continues to this day and is increasing to levels that are clearly racist and illegal.

Does it matter that the reality of life in the Reich between 1933 and 1940 is erased by media? Yes, it does because no free people should allow their thoughts and their consciences to be manipulated by an incestuous alien-controlled infestation of racist Shabbos Goy prostitutes. The truth is paramount. Why do media and palace publishers conceal tens of millions of images that faithfully record the agony and the ecstasy of the peoples of the Hitler's Reich?

BACKDROP

Britain falsely claims that Hitler's Germany was intent on world domination. This is a bit rich coming from a country that had invaded over 202 of the world's 221 nations.

HITLER'S REPLY TO ROOSEVELT'S LETTER

"The fact has obviously escaped Mr Roosevelt's notice that Palestine at present is occupied not by German troops but by the English; and that the country is undergoing restriction of liberty by the most brutal resort to force, is being robbed of its independence and is suffering the cruellest of maltreatment for the benefit of Jewish interlopers." ~ Adolf Hitler, April 28, 1939. Speech to the Reichstag in response to an impudent critique sent to the Reich by the U.S. President.

Unlike the United States, Britain and USSR, Hitler's Germany never set foot on the territory of others until invited to do so. That is Austria, The Saar, and Rhineland where a plebiscite (referendum) settled the matter once and for all. The Sudetenland returned to the Reich to the wild jubilation of the long-suffering Sudeten Germans who had for 700 years toiled Bohemia.

When the Worker's Reich, plagued by perpetual economic warfare, insults, provocations and constant border attacks by Poland and France retaliated, the territory overrun by German troops was that of Germany's anyway.

Because Hitler's many peace offers were vetoed by the Allies Poland ended up occupied by the Soviets as were 20 nations ceded to the USSR in February 1945. The argument that the war was started to guarantee the independence of Poland is clearly seen for the falsity it is. Poland merely provided the excuse for the destruction of the German trade competitor, the enrichment of shareholders who had invested in the banking and armaments industries, and the biggest land grab since 'the golden horde' of Genghis Khan had swept through Russia and much of Europe.

Thanks to Roosevelt and Churchill 100 million people became slaves of the USSR, and an estimated 50 million Europeans lost their lives. Such was the catastrophe that fell upon Europe because in October 1939 Westminster refused to negotiate a solution that required only the frontier security of the Reich.

"Just imagine going to war over Danzig, such a world catastrophe, just to prevent Germany from getting a piece of territory that belonged to her; because Britain was afraid of Germany getting too strong." - Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Europe in September 1938

What media doesn't tell us that in 1940 'Britain at Bay', supposedly standing alone, added 1.6 million square miles of territory to its Empire. Britain achieved this reprehensible distinction by militarily seizing and occupying Italian and French colonies; Syria, Iraq and Persia (Iran).

In this one year alone, Westminster conspired in a Yugoslavian coup, assassinated political leaders, blackmailed neutral countries, and in defiance of international law initiated the bombing of civilian populations. This unlawfulness was to bring terrible retribution to the British population. Retaliation by the much-provoked Germany led to 40,000 British dead with half of the victims being Londoners.

CHAPTER 4 UTOPIA FOUND AND LOST

Adolf Hitler's National Socialist German Workers Party (NSDAP) was elected in January 1933. Then, in 1936, the electorate took part in a referendum in which they were invited to reject or endorse the leadership of President-Chancellor Adolf Hitler and their elected NSDAP parliamentarians.

Overseen by international observers the referendum of 1936 was overwhelmingly in favour of the National Socialists remaining as the nation's government. The most popular government in European history continued until it was dissolved by the victorious Allies. The elected legitimate internationally recognised German government was arrested and placed on show trials by the Allies from May 1945. The nation's leaders endured show trials that have never been endorsed as legal by the professions of jurisprudence. In fact, the Nuremberg Trials and military tribunal have been internationally condemned, most by high-ranking members of the Allies military leaders.

Defeated by the combined forces of three world empires Germany's vanquished armed forces surrendered on May 8, 1945. However, the internationally recognised democratically elected government never surrendered. The legitimate government was replaced by a Bundestag the terms of which were set by the victorious Allies. For this reason, Germany's regimes since May 8, 1945 govern in defiance of the legal constitution and its deputies are nothing other than Washington approved apparatchiks.

CHAPTER 5

LAST APPEAL TO REASON BY ADOLF HITLER

Hitler's appeal to reason was made when, having secured German borders from the threat of Polish, British and French threats, Germany was omnipotent. The appeal to reason was not the plea of the weak but the open-handedness of the strong.

The war, which at this point was a minor conflict, should have ended with Germany's withdrawal to agreed frontiers with a guarantee of no further British or Polish aggression. The proposal was perfectly reasonable and internationally acclaimed.

Had Churchill accepted this offer the war would have ended, 50 million lives spared, and Europe would have remained free of Bolshevik aggression and terrifying occupation. Germany could have become Britain's trading partner, the British Empire secured, and total war averted. Winston Churchill ate the dove of peace with the aforesaid tragic conclusions.

On a sardonic note, it is well to remember that had the peace proposals been accepted then the lives of 6 million Jews would not have been forfeited, which is another taboo question.

"I have summoned you to this meeting in the midst of our tremendous struggle for the freedom and the future of the German nation. I have done so, firstly, because I considered it imperative to give our people an insight into the events, unique in history, that lie behind us, secondly, because I wished to express my gratitude to our magnificent soldiers, and thirdly, with the intention of appealing, once more and for the last time, to common sense in general.

"If we compare the causes which prompted this historic struggle with the magnitude and the far-reaching effects of military events, we are forced to the conclusion that its general course and the sacrifices it has entailed are out of proportion to the alleged reasons for its outbreak, unless they (Poland) were nothing but a pretext for underlying intentions.

“The programme of the National Socialist Movement, in so far as it affected the future development of the Reich’s relations with the rest of the world, was simply an attempt to bring about a definite revision of the Treaty of Versailles, though as far as at all possible, this was to be accomplished by peaceful means.

“This revision was absolutely essential. The conditions imposed at Versailles were intolerable, not only because of their humiliating discrimination and because the disarmament which they ensured deprived the German nation of all its rights, but far more so because of the consequent destruction of the material existence of one of the great civilised nations in the world, and the proposed annihilation of its future, the utterly senseless accumulation of immense tracts of territory under the domination of a number of states, the theft of all the irreparable foundations of life and indispensable vital necessities from a conquered nation.

While this dictate was being drawn up, men of insight even among our foes were uttering warnings about the terrible consequences which the ruthless application of its insane conditions would entail, a proof that even among them the conviction predominated that such a dictate could not possibly be held up in days to come.

“Their objections and protests were silenced by the assurance that the statutes of the newly created League of Nations provided for a revision of these conditions; in fact, the League was supposed to be the competent authority.

“The hope of revision was thus at no time regarded as presumptuous, but as something natural. Unfortunately, the Geneva institution, as those responsible for Versailles had intended, never looked upon itself as a body competent to undertake any sensible revision, but from the very outset as nothing more than the guarantor of the ruthless enforcement and maintenance of the conditions imposed at Versailles.

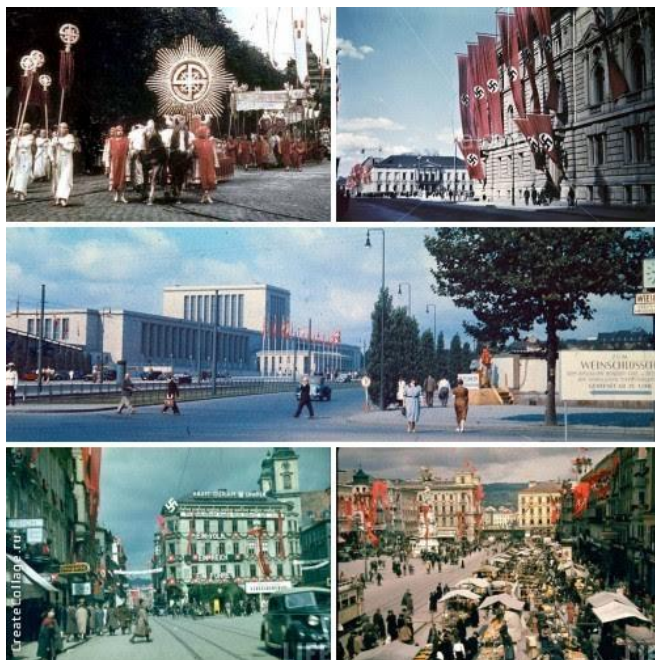

“All attempts made by democratic Germany to obtain equality for the German people by a revision of the Treaty proved unavailing.” ~ Adolf Hitler, President-Chancellor Germany.

LIFE IN HITLER’S GERMANY

The construction of houses and apartments for workers was notable everywhere. The financing arrangements were quite reasonable. Houses and apartments were constructed according to the highest standards of public health, a factor for which previous worker housing projects were very negligent. In a few years, tax revenues trebled.

Before the end of 1933, Hitler’s Germany had built 202,119 dwellings in accordance with his building program. Within four years, nearly 1.5 million (1,458,128) new homes were built for the people.

The monthly rent for a German worker, as prescribed by law, was not to exceed 26 Reichsmarks. That was about one eighth of his monthly earnings. (NOTE: It is reported that in the UK poor families are paying 1 / 3rd of their income on rent). Employees with higher incomes paid 45 Reichsmarks maximum.

Before the National Socialists were elected in January 1933 mortgages were so heavily taxed and interest so high that tens of thousands of farmers lost their livelihoods when forced to sell their farms. This was a severe blow for a nation which at the time imported very little food. Virtually everything on the German kitchen table was domestically produced. Swingeing bank charges were literally starving the nation. Of course, the legitimate landowners' properties were confiscated by the banks, none of which were German.

At the Bückeberg Farmers' Day celebrations in 1935, President-Chancellor Adolf Hitler announced the passage of The Farm Inheritance Law. This enactment provided protection of agriculture, whereby farms bigger than 15 acres could only be transferred by inheritance. Such farms already in alien hands had to be returned to their previous owners.

HOME SECURITY: The National Socialist state made available the necessary funds for repurchases. The purchase of bankrupted farms for a few dollars was nullified by The Farm Inheritance Law, much to the joy of the farmers.

It was a brilliant chess move for the protection of agriculture. The great rake-off by non-German speculators was retroactively curtailed. This meant the parasites did not profit from their ill-gotten gains because the Reichsmarks were not convertible. Unsurprisingly, the international most British and American-based stockbroking fraternity and their clients were outraged at the tables being turned on them.

Other effective measures were taken on behalf of the farmers, whose incomes were the lowest in Germany. In 1933 alone, 17,611 houses were built for farmers. Within 3 years, 91,000 such houses were built. By these and other measures, Hitler benefited the farmers and improved their economic situation.

BRITAIN DISGRACED

“Because we were doubtful about the psychological effect that it was, we who started the strategic bombing offensive, we have shrunk from giving our great decision of May 11 1940, the publicity it deserves.” - Bombing Vindicated. J. M. Spaight, CB. CBE, Principal Secretary to the Air Ministry.

“It was absolutely contrary to international law.” - Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

British war historian and strategist Captain Sir Basil Liddell Hart declared that through this (bombing) strategy victory had been achieved “through practicing the most uncivilized means of warfare that the world had known since the Mongol invasions,” - The Evolution of Warfare. Baber & Faber, 1946, p.75.

Where are the media's missing years and pictures of Reich peace and prosperity? The great English prophet George Orwell has the answer:

“Every record has been destroyed or falsified, every book rewritten, every picture has been repainted, every statue and street building has been renamed, and every date has been altered. And the process is continuing day by day and minute by minute. History has stopped. Nothing exists except an endless present in which the Party is always right.”

READERS INVITATION

LIFE IN THE REICH Mike Walsh. From 1933 the German working class enjoyed a lifestyle superior to that of the rich in the West. Hitler's Germany led the world in fashion, medicine, cinema, lifestyle, innovation, manufacturing, transport infrastructure, public facilities, cutting edge science, healthcare and education. Amazon deleted LIFE IN THE REICH because it demolished the victor's narrative. READ FREE saves you from paying the book's cover price. Michael will send you his bank-to-bank details if you wish to voluntarily transfer or ZELLE a gratuity or make a standing order for as little as £10. Contact Michael at euroman_uk@yahoo.co.uk

CHAPTER 6 REICH SELF-SUFFICIENCY

SELF-SUFFICIENCY: Deprived of U.S. dollars, the rich iron ore of Sweden with its iron content of 81% to 85% was imported at a high purchasing and transport cost. Furthermore, Sweden was under considerable pressure to cease trading with National Socialist Germany. Early in 1940 (Britain at Bay), Britain gathered together an army backed by Royal Navy resources and was poised to invade neutral Norway and Sweden to cut off Germany's legitimate ore purchases.

Travel, Leisure and Holidays; Hitler's Germany was worlds ahead.

For Hitler it was out of the question for Germany to become indebted to international finance in order to develop the economy. He did not want Germany to fall back into their interest-slavery. The National Socialist folk economy under Hitler thus stands in contrast to today's politicians and capitalist system of irresponsible debt-machinations. Hitler had found a new way, and therein is his great and unique accomplishments.

CUTTING OUT THE BANKING HOUSES

In order to provide work and bread to the millions of unemployed, the plan to provide Germany with a futuristic transport infrastructure was developed. The construction of autobahns was begun, using only German materials.

Today's roads are paved with bitumen or asphalt. This petroleum-based product has to be imported and paid for in dollars. This suited the bankers as this industry too was an udder to be milked by the banking cartels.

Germany did not possess U.S. dollars nor did it want them or the swingeing interest levies that accompanied them. A case in point; the Mersey Tunnel linking Liverpool and Birkenhead was constructed in 1934 using money borrowed from the banks. In 2013, the money lenders were still raking in £10 million each year in interest rates and £58 million is still owed 80 years after the money had been borrowed. It is estimated that the debt will have finally been paid in 2048.

Relate this to Britain's entire transport and public structure. One now begins to realise why Hitler's people were the world's richest whilst in the West people struggle to get by on wages that are 50% directly or indirectly taxed. The autobahns in Hitler's Germany were constructed using concrete slabs laid together upon compacted earth. All necessary materials were available in Germany. Unlike bitumen and asphalt surfaces concrete is far more enduring and less expensive. As a consequence, roads built in Germany more than 80 years ago need very little maintenance. The inventors and builders were the civil engineers, Dr Todt and Dr Dorpmüller.

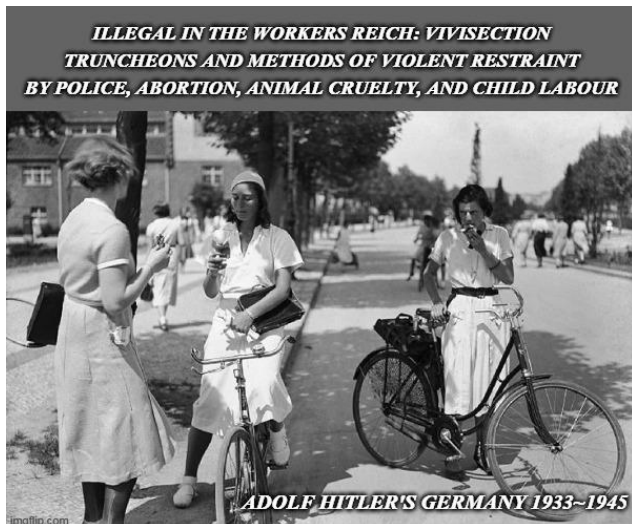

A CAR FOR EVERY FAMILY

As elsewhere the Weimar Republic had a motor manufacturing industry. Before Hitler this industry was financed by the banking houses, which had the effect of raising the selling price whilst reducing profitability. The price per automobile would be between 1,350 and 1,600 Reichsmarks. Hitler considered these prices to be extortionate for the aforesaid reasons.

Hitler proposed the building of a new and modern auto for the folk. Dr Porsche and Adolf Hitler worked together on the design of the Volkswagen. This vehicle was revolutionary and innovative in every respect and was so advanced that in eighty years its model retains much of its original character.

The Volkswagen at the time was far better designed car than its British, French and American rivals. Bolshevik Russian didn't have a domestic auto manufacturing industry. The Bolsheviks were wholly dependent upon the Ford Motor Company, Caterpillar and brands such as Studebaker. Ironically, the Soviet economy ('workers' paradise') was dependent upon American and European Jewish owned banking houses. Perhaps this will concentrate the mind to explain the Capitalist / Communist alliance against Hitler's Germany.

CHAPTER 7 REICH ON THE ROAD

At that time the Volkswagen cost 995 Reichsmarks, underwritten by the National Socialist state and could be paid off in small instalments.

In order to keep Germany independent of international finance houses, German chemists manufactured tires from domestically available materials, chiefly coal, by means of polymerization. The Buna Works in Merseburg was built specifically for this purpose. Tyres made of artificial rubber were also stronger than those made of natural rubber. Again, the banking conglomerates and ruling elite who owned shares in these industries too were eliminated as useless middlemen.

Cars also need gasoline (petrol), a distilled petroleum product. Oil products could only be purchased from American owned sources with U.S. dollars.

Due to the economic blockade and sanctions imposed upon the Reich, German ingenuity and enterprise produced gasoline from coal-liquefaction. Thus was the origin of the Leuna Works at Merseburg which after the war was plundered by the victorious Allies. Today, the Republic of South Africa produces gasoline by these same techniques. The inventors were the chemists, Fischer and Tropsch.

NO NEED FOR FAR EAST SWEATSHOPS

NOTE: Millions of British workers in the 1930s were laid off as the shareholding elite transferred investment from British mills to the more profitable Indian sweatshops. Ironically, the British marched off to war to protect their slave masters and their sweatshop rivals.

CLOTHING SELF-SUFFICIENCY: The peoples of the Workers Reich needed clothing. Materials, mostly but not exclusively cotton, could only be obtained with U.S. dollars from British, French and American-owned cotton and clothing industries in their home countries and their colonies.

Hitler's Germany invented and manufactured the world's first practical rayon fibre. Combined with sheep's' wool, rayon fibre made comfortable clothing. After the occupation of Germany, the Americans stole the patent for this fibre (and much else) and claimed it as a prize-of-war. This was then sold back to Germany at a high rate of banking interest and capitalist profit.

CHAPTER 8
HITLER ON TRUE DEMOCRACY

THE PEOPLES DEMOCRACY

“We want, too, to restore to the German intelligentsia the freedom of which it has been robbed by the system which has hitherto ruled. In parliamentarianism they did not possess this freedom. We want to liberate Germany from the fetters of an impossible parliamentary democracy, not because we are terrorists, not because we intend to gag the free spirit. On the contrary, the spirit has never had more violence done to it than when mere numbers made themselves its master.

No, our wish is that responsible folk should once more be brought together so that every class and every individual should be given that authority over those below and that responsibility towards those above which are essential if one is to build up the life of a community. We do not want so to educate the nation that it lives for ideas and artificial constructions; we want to test all ideas and constructions to discover how far they are capable of serving the nation's life.” – Adolf Hitler, Stuttgart, February 15, 1933.

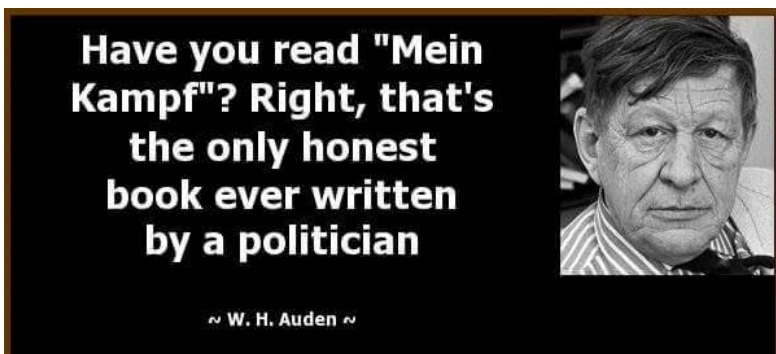

MEIN KAMPF

Self-styled historians select sections of Hitler's Mein Kampf to spin their toxic point. What they neglect to add is that whilst the Chancellor's autobiography is a fascinating record of his youthful ambitions, early experiences and thoughts, the book's content relates to the early times in which it was penned.

Hitler was no different from anyone else in revising his thoughts according to changing circumstances, developing experience and his benefiting from the greater awareness that comes with maturity. Hitler repudiated or modified passages in Mein Kampf with the passage of time. In his preface to his translation of Mein Kampf, James Murphy writes:

“Why doesn't Hitler revise Mein Kampf? The answer, as I think, which would immediately come into the mind of any impartial critic, is that Mein Kampf is an historical document which bears the imprint of its own time. To revise it would involve taking it out of its historical context. Moreover, Hitler has declared that his acts and public statements constitute a partial revision of his book, and are to be taken as such.” (p. 10). James Murphy, translator of Mein Kampf.

For this reason, it is best to be aware of such historical oversight' when one reads a passage of Mein Kampf quoted by palace historians.

TECHNICAL AND SCIENTIFIC SUPREMACY

Reich development in all sectors was a century or more ahead of the Allies and therefore Reich initiative and manufacturing excellence had to be eliminated

Lichtberg cinema in Hitler's Germany 1933

Streamliner 1941

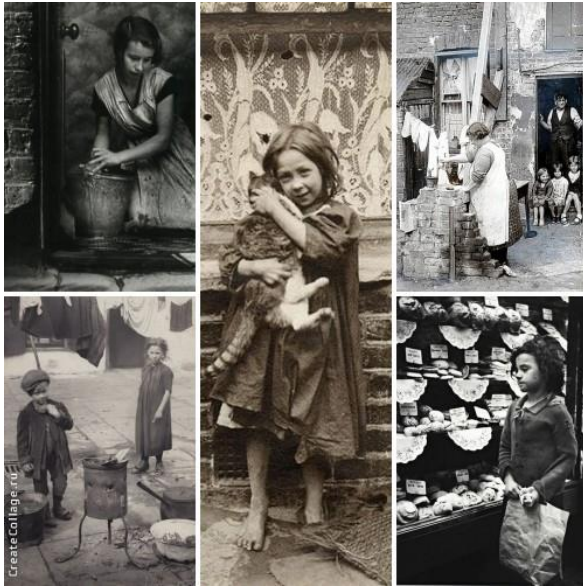

DEMOCRACY IN THE REICH

“Women have always been among my staunchest supporters. They feel that my victory is their victory.” - Adolf Hitler, New York Times, 10th July 1933.

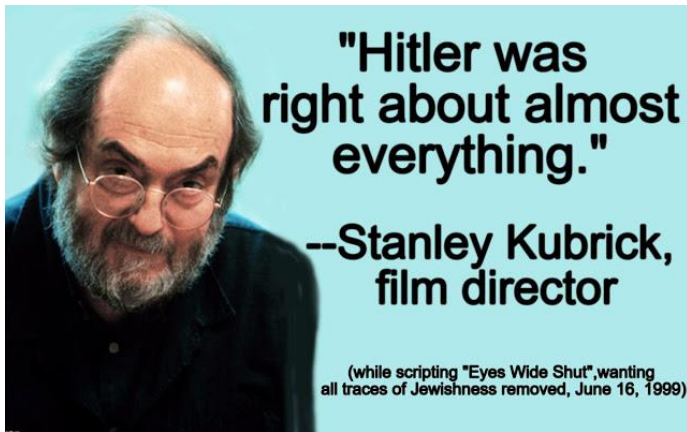

GERMANY 1 BRITAIN 0

By comparison, Britain’s record of electorate endorsement was dismal to say the least. It wasn’t until the May 30, 1929 General Election that women under the age of 30 were allowed to vote. Incredibly, it wasn’t until 1950 that plural voting was abolished. Plural voting meant that the intelligentsia and wealthy, those who owned multiple properties, could cast their votes multiple times. Its purpose was to keep the workers working and the elite in power. The Reich vs. Britain democracy scoreboard between 1933 – 1945 stands at Germany 1 – Britain 0.

Welcome to the coalition regimes of 1930s Britain

DEMOCRACY GERMANY 6 vs. BRITAIN 0

From 1933 to 1945 the Reich system of representation was based on the Greek form of democracy inspired by Pericles (495 – 429 BC). This conception of democracy was based on the expression of the popular will (plebiscite or referendum) on all matters of national importance.

These included leaving the League of Nations, and combining the authority of president and chancellor. In 1935 the peoples of French occupied Saar were invited by plebiscite to state a desire to stay as they were or return to Hitler's Germany.

In 1936 the electorate voted in support of a German military presence in the French Occupied Rhine region.

There was a further election in which the electorate of Austria were invited to remain independent or join Hitler's Reich. A similar referendum took place in Czech Occupied Sudetenland in 1938. All counts were overseen by international observers and all were overwhelmingly in favour of reunification with Hitler's Germany.

In Britain too there were also opportunities for Britain's electorate to express an opinion on matters of pressing importance. Not once was it even suggested that the British electorate be consulted on matters that directly affected their sovereignty, culture and security.

Of these might be included the ignominious terms of the notorious Versailles Treaty that were a direct cause of World War II. Nobody thought to ask the British electorate whether England should return to the Gold Standard. Nor were they given chance to consider the issues involved in the General Strike.

Nobody thought to consult the hapless British electorate on Mr Baldwin's Indian policy which led to the layoffs of hundreds of thousands of wage earners. When pretence was made of consulting the electorate in 1931 exactly the opposite of their judgement was executed.

Over the Abyssinian dispute, England might have gone to war, but the people had no chance to say "Yea" or "Nay." No pretence whatever was made of consulting the people on the response of government to such vital issues as Austria, Czechoslovakia, or Poland. The decision to attack Germany on September 3, 1939, was arbitrarily (and illegally) taken by a handful of men who were responsible only to the City of London and its lending houses. The decision to go to war was never ratified by parliament and so was illegal.

Government sponsored opportunity for the electorate to vote on matters of national importance again puts Britain to shame. Plebiscites Hitler's Reich 6 vs. Britain 0.

In 1945 the Allies dissolved Germany's fairer and more representative system of democracy. The given reason was that direct (peoples) consultation 'had been abused' during the 1933 – 1945 periods.

Upon the defeat of Hitler's democratic Germany 21 European nations that to one extent or another enjoyed sovereignty were surrendered to the murderous and unelected Soviet regime.

The signatures on the Yalta Agreement, the most infamous document in history, were those of Josef Stalin, Britain's unelected premier Winston Churchill, and U.S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Clearly, the allied claim to have fought the war in defence of democracy doesn't hold water.

Stripping aside victors' propaganda one cannot but concede that life in Hitler's Reich was far better than elsewhere. Regardless of one's political persuasion it is indisputable that the quality of life in Hitler's Germany was far superior to anything in the world then or now.

"In spite of all the liberal protests, and it only remains to watch the results of the forthcoming general election in Germany, in which it is inconceivable that a single vote should be cast against him (Adolf Hitler), even by the angriest German Jew or German Communist." ~ George Bernard Shaw, playwright. 'The Observer' November 5th 1933.

"Adolf Hitler, son of the Catholic Church, died while defending Christianity. It is therefore understandable that words cannot be found to lament over his death, when so many were found to exalt his life. Over his mortal remains stands his victorious figure. With the palm of the martyr, God gives Hitler the laurels of Victory." - Francisco Franco (Head of Spain) 3 May 1945

Although the NSDAP was elected January 30, 1933, this can hardly be described as the genesis of the most remarkable achievement on the history of elected government. From as early as 1921 the National Socialists tirelessly laboured to win the hearts and minds of the people.

Remarkably, they did so by offering a solution that had no template. The concept of debt-free government for the people by the people had never before been thought of let alone attempted. In other words, the untiring National Socialists offered a dream with the promise that their vision would come true and the dream did come true.

Remarkably, National Socialism won not only the people over but also earned the approval, respect and admiration of peoples around the world. Whatever ism one places at the end of one's politics, ethnicity, religious or political beliefs, it is impossible to find a political or religious faith superior to that of Adolf Hitler as prescribed by the National Socialists and proven between 1921 – 1945.

READERS INVITATION

LIFE IN THE REICH Mike Walsh. From 1933 the German working class enjoyed a lifestyle superior to that of the rich in the West. Hitler's Germany led the world in fashion, medicine, cinema, lifestyle, innovation, manufacturing, transport infrastructure, public facilities, cutting edge science, healthcare and education. Amazon deleted LIFE IN THE REICH because it demolished the victor's narrative.

READ FREE saves you from paying the book's cover price. Michael will send you his bank-to-bank details if you wish to voluntarily transfer or ZELLE a gratuity or make a standing order for as little as £10. Contact Michael at euroman_uk@yahoo.co.uk

CHAPTER 9 EVERY VOTE COUNTED

“We have deliberately built up an organisation counting many thousands of adherents, in which there is no dictator. And when our adversaries say, “It is easy for you to say this since you are yourself the dictator;” we reply, “No gentlemen, you are mistaken. There is no question of a single dictator, but of ten thousand dictators, each of them in his place.” ~ Adolf Hitler.

“Hitler has repeatedly taken the opportunity of consulting the nation and has each time obtained its wholehearted approval of his policy and methods of government.” ~ Cesare Santoro, Hitler Germany.

THE FIRST CITIZEN OF GERMANY

“I am a German, I believe in this Germany of mine, I believe in my people, and I will not suffer that any alien force shall ever set limits to this my faith. There can never be any true independence under foreign protection or at the wish of the foreigner: an independence which must be protected by the foreigner there is not and there cannot be. I would rather go to ruin together with my people than accept such independence.”
~ Hitler’s first speech in re-unified Germany-Austria, Graz 3 April 1938.

THE WORLD’S ONLY PEACEFUL REVOLUTION

“More people died as a result of the tiny abortive Easter Uprising against British rule in Ireland (Easter 1916) than died as a result of political violence in Germany during the entire National Socialist revolution.” ~ Adolf Hitler.

CHAPTER 10 LIFE IN THE REICH

LIFE IN THE WORKPLACE

All workers (and their employers) were protected by a 'Tribunal of Social Honour' that laid down conditions of employment that were superior to any comparable legislation in the world. Except for reasons force majeure it was illegal to dismiss an employee. All workers and their employers had recourse to independent mediation by tribunal.

“I have heard of no instance where workers had lost important rights or amenities.”
~ H. Powys-Greenwood. Hitler's First Year.

THE UNBEATABLE BARTER SYSTEM

Because Germany was no longer on the gold standard her foreign trade was transformed into a well-functioning barter system. Many nations reduced their dependency on the bankers 'democracies' by bartering goods and services with Hitler's Germany. In effect, the West's banking houses were being taken out of the money maker's loop. In exchange for machinery, superior goods of considerable technical innovation the Reich received raw materials. Everyone was happy, except the banking houses, the corporations, and their elitist shareholders.

Because of her futuristic innovation and superior manufacturing methods free of bankers' interests the National Socialist State became an unrivalled competitor to the disadvantaged capitalist high bank charging handicapped corporations.

In return for goods, manufactured or otherwise, tea, coffee, spices, tropical fruit and important raw materials poured into Germany from Spain, Portugal, Brazil and other lands. European and other countries approved of this method of doing business because Hitler's Germany proved to be a fair and reliable trading partner.

For the first time in their lives Germans enjoyed access to products denied to their French, British and American counterparts. The manufacturing and banking communities were livid.

VERY LITTLE SPENT ON REARMAMENT

"I would like to add, that under Hitler, the 6 to 7 million unemployed under the Weimar Republic were, for the most part, re-employed within two- and one-half years. Within five years, full employment was reached.

Hitler's enemies claim today that full employment was only achieved by rearmament. That is absolutely untrue. Armaments began to play a big economic role for the first time in 1939, as England and France forced war upon us. Here are the figures:

German Defence Industry Income from 1933 to 1939:

1933/34	RM	1.9	billion	=	4%	of	the	National	Income
1934/35	RM	1.9	billion	=	4%	of	the	National	Income
1935/36	RM	4	billion	=	7%	of	the	National	Income
1936/37	RM	5.8	billion	=	9%	of	the	National	Income
1937/38	RM	8.2	billion	=	11%	of	the	National	Income
1938/39	RM	18.4	billion	=	22%	of	the	National	Income

ARE YOU BEING TAKEN FOR A FOOL

Claiming that re-armament brought prosperity to Germany is another way of saying you're such a jerk you will believe anything. If military expenditure brought prosperity, then the U.S. and NATO members would be the richest countries on earth. It is precisely because these territory-grabbers spend too much on the military complex that their transport and public infrastructure is today falling apart.

Taxes spent on war in the last 10-years alone could have bought every American citizen an idyllic home in an all-facilities garden community. The money spent on just interest payable on war-related loans would provide every U.S. citizen with a two-month paid vacation every year. Do the math: Total cost of U.S. wars over the last 10 years $6 trillion. The average cost of a small American home is $60,000. Number of homes built for $6 trillion 100 million.

Ironically, due to the Reich's unpreparedness for war Germany was defeated. Had Hitler put his nation's wealth into scientific war-related research such as missiles instead of peaceful ventures the Reich might not have been attacked. The U.S. and NATO has never attacked a nation capable of giving as good as it gets. If Hitler's Germany had rearmed then war would almost certainly have been averted.

When Britain declared war on Germany on September 3, 1939, over half Germany's military transport was horse drawn. A bit odd considering we are told by the palace scribblers that the Reich intended to take over the world. It isn't clear how horse drawn field guns could be transported to Arizona, Cape Town and London.

"What is necessary is to teach each class and profession the importance of the others. All together form one mighty body; labourer, peasant, and professional man." ~ Adolf Hitler.

GERMANY FIRST

A common demand of the peoples of the European Union, United Kingdom, US, Canada and Australia is that their governments put their country and the rights of their citizens before those of non-citizens. This is precisely what the National Socialists did in Hitler's Germany:

"The national State divides its inhabitants into three classes: State citizens, State subjects, and foreigners. It must be held in greater honour to be a citizen of this Reich even if only a crossing sweeper, than to be a king in a foreign State." ~ Adolf Hitler.

STATE SUBSIDISED FOREIGN CRUISES FOR THE WORKERS

The large ocean liners such as the Wilhelm Gustloff, Robert Ley and Cap Arkona were designed and built to offer ordinary workers opportunity for affordable cruises to exotic lands.

The Reich's super liners were modern in design and more than the equal to the ocean greyhounds of rival nations. These ships were disallowed from entering British ports and harbours. This ban had nothing to do with war psychosis as the ban was in place long before the outbreak of war. The British government simply did not want the poverty-stricken British workers making comparisons with their German counterparts.

The favourite destinations for German workers inclined to travel by ocean liner were the Portuguese island of Madeira, as well as the Spanish islands and sea ports along the Mediterranean coasts.

Many foreigners, especially the British, sent their children to study in Germany where they wished to learn about Hitler's superior and much fairer economy. Many were drawn to wonder at the pre-eminence of Germany's technical achievements. Much of the rail infrastructure was so futuristic that foreigners could only gawp and shake their heads in wonder.

Adolf Hitler's Reich Encouraged visits by foreigners. It offered subsidised travel for America's impoverished ethnic-German communities. During the 1930s, whilst Germany enjoyed prosperity, the depression in the US claimed the lives of 7 million Americans due to hunger-related diseases. This new economic system of the Reich threatened the omnipotence of the pound sterling, imperial preference and US dollar and could only be destroyed by war.

In his speech at Fulton in 1946, Churchill declared: "The war was not only waged to defeat fascism (sic) in Germany, but to conquer the German export market. We could have, if we had wanted, prevented war in 1935, without firing a shot, but we did not wish to do so."

THE UNPAID PRESIDENT-CHANCELLOR

The President-Chancellor Adolf Hitler shunned his state salary, which was donated to the state. Adolf Hitler did not possess personal property. When in 1945 he surrendered himself to God there were no personal possessions to be plundered by the military conquerors. Having said that, such is the degradation of the victors that clothing said to be the fuhrer's underwear was recently sold at auction. It is difficult to imagine such depths of debasement.

Adolf Hitler was the only statesman that never had a bank account. The millions of Reichsmarks earned in royalties from his book, Mein Kampf, lay in Trust, at the EHER Publisher in Munich.

In April, 1945, when the end was near, Adolf Hitler instructed Adjutant Schaub, who had been severely wounded in the Great War, to the EHER Publisher and what money was left was distributed between the household staff at Berchtesgaden as 'he did not want the faithful to suffer.'

These royalties from his written works including Mein Kampf were donated to ex-servicemen's associations, especially those associated with wounded servicemen. Some of the royalties were used to purchase works of art, which were donated to the State.

The copyright was afterwards stolen by the Bavarian regime imposed by the Americans. Those responsible for the copyright theft made copying or publication illegal. However, it was impossible to ban the book, which in terms of popularity is second only to that of the Holy Bible. The book is now widely available throughout the world and is available online. The James Murphy edition is the favour copy.

NO CLASS WARFARE IN HITLER'S REICH

“We have not broken-down classes in order to set new ones in their place; we have broken down classes to make way for the German people as a whole. Our education also trains men to respect intellectual achievement: we bring one to respect the spade, another to respect the compass or the pen. All now are but German fellow-countrymen, and it is their achievement which determines their value.” ~ Adolf Hitler.

BRITAIN THEN AND NOW

The do as we wish class

The do as you are told class

CHAPTER 11 HITLER'S GERMANY

"Social honour recognises no distinction between the employer and the unemployed. All of them work for a common purpose and are entitled to equal honour and respect." ~ Adolf Hitler.

Between 1933 and 1945 there was a tremendous emphasis on culture: theatres flourished; the movie industry produced about 100 feature films per year (of which not one was anti-American). Only 50 of them can be considered pure propaganda movies). Some the best classical recordings were made in Hitler's Reich. Actors from all over Europe, but mainly from France, Sweden and Italy were stars in German made movies.

SOCIAL WELFARE

GUN OWNERSHIP

"Frequently I am asked about gun control during the Hitler era. Claims are made that Hitler could take power because he disarmed the German people. That is nonsense. In Germany gun ownership was never as prevalent as it is in America. There were gun clubs all over the Reich." ~ Carl Schmidt.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Unlike British and American workers, the German worker received a pension and insurance in the event of sickness or disability. Whilst some of these rights are taken for granted today it should be remembered that at the time such social protection was unheard of outside of Germany. Needless to say, these hard-earned investments were plundered by the victorious Allies following Germany's defeat.

Again, unlike Britain, the U.S. and USSR child labour was prohibited in Hitler's Germany. Hours of work were regulated (especially for expectant and new mothers).

Safe working conditions were provided for persons between 14 and 18 years of age who were prohibited from working in excess of 8 hours daily. Night work for young persons was similarly prohibited. Paid holidays of persons below 16 years (15 working days), above 16-years (12 working days) usually increased to 18 days without regard to age." ~ H. Powys-Greenwood. Hitler's First Year.

"The whole of education should be designed so as to occupy a boy's free time in cultivation of his body. He has no right to loaf about idly; but after his day's work is done, he ought to harden his young body, so that life may not find him soft when he enters it. No one should be allowed to sin at the expense of posterity, that is, of the race." ~ Adolf Hitler.

SPORT IN THE REICH

HEALTH IS HAPPINESS Sport was encouraged. As a consequence, Germany dominated the medal table at the close of the 1936 Berlin Olympics. The nation's sportsmen and women won a staggering 131 medals. The nearest contender was the much larger United States with just 64 medals. The UK won 34 mostly bronze medals.

American Olympian Jesse Owens confers with fellow athlete, Germany's Lutz Long, the champion long-jumper. The two remained life-long friends, but unfortunately not for long. Owens's friend died in action on July 14, 1943 during the Sicilian campaign.

In his last letter to the great American runner, who was snubbed by his own US President Roosevelt, Lutz Long asked the coloured athlete to contact his son and to tell him about his father and "what times were like when they were not separated by war. I am saying tell him how things can be between men on this earth."

After the war's end, the coloured American, who in his own country was treated as a freak, did indeed visit the son of the Olympian and the two took part in a documentary. In fact, the American runner was best man at the wedding of the Olympian long-jumper's son.

HEALTHCARE

SIR ARNOLD WILSON, MP. “Health statistics in Germany are satisfactory. Infant mortality has been greatly reduced and is considerably superior to that in Great Britain. Tuberculosis and other diseases have noticeably diminished. The criminal courts have never had so little to do and the prisons have never had so few occupants.

It is a pleasure to observe the physical aptitude of the German youth. Even the poorest persons are better clothed than was formerly the case, and their cheerful faces testify to their psychological improvement that has been wrought within them. Economic conditions in Germany, abstraction made of the influence exerted by rearmament, are steadily progressing. Unemployment has greatly decreased.”

WOMEN’S RIGHTS AND SECURITY

“I give women the same rights as men; but I do not think they are the same to the one as to the other. The woman is the life partner of the man. She ought not to be burdened with the tasks for which man alone is made. But in every case where women do not marry, and there are many in Germany owing to the shortage of men, they have the right to earn their living just in the same way as any man.” ~ Adolf Hitler, Paris Soir, January 26 1936.

“The National Socialist state refuses to admit female labour in factories merely because such labour is cheap. There is, of course, a certain amount of industrial work which can only be performed by women, but an essential condition is that this sort of work should not be injurious to health.” ~ Adolf Hitler.

“To be a boy or girl at that time was wonderful. In the Hitler Youth the differences between Christian denominations or the different German states didn’t count. We all truly felt that we were members of one body of people, one nation.” ~ Carl Schmidt.

NEVER FORGET WHAT THE 'NAZIS' DID

THE TWICE ELECTED GERMAN NATIONAL SOCIALIST WORKERS PARTY

LIMITED CITIZENSHIP TO ETHNIC GERMANS AND NON-GERMANS WHO FOUGHT IN WORLD WAR I. FOREIGN EXPLOITATION OF GERMANS ILLEGAL

imgflip.com

THE PEOPLE'S LEADER

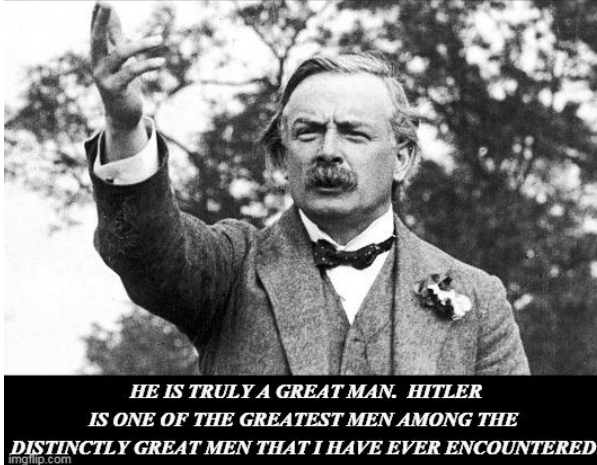

“President-Chancellor Adolf Hitler often travelled in his special train from Berlin to Munich and back. As soon as people living or working on either side of the tracks would see his train, they would stop their work and wave, or give the German salute. Hitler was one of us, and we were proud of him.

Since the election of the National Socialists was democratic, rather than by violent overthrow, the elected Adolf Hitler took away the truncheons and weaponry used by the police the new state had inherited from the much-despised Weimer regime.

The Chancellor took the view that on too many occasions, none of which were excusable, nightsticks and handcuffs, police brutality, had been set loose on unarmed citizens. A law was passed in which it was no longer legal to use any form of violence other than legitimate restraint against German citizens. This, clearly showed that the leadership of the Third Reich had trust, rather than fear for the folk, and that the folk had trust, rather than fear for their leadership. The high crimes rates for which the Weimar Republic was notorious plummeted to insignificant levels.” – Carl Schmidt.

CHAPTER 12 DAVID LLOYD GEORGE STATESMAN

DAVID LLOYD GEORGE
BRITISH PRIME MINISTER

David Lloyd George (1863 – 1945)
Voted the third greatest prime minister of Britain

“I have now seen the famous German leader and also something of the great change he has affected. There can be no doubt that he has achieved a marvellous transformation in the spirit of the people, in their attitude towards each other, and in their social and economic outlook.

“He rightly claimed at Nuremberg that in four years his movement had made a new Germany. It is not the Germany of the first decade that followed the war, broken, dejected and bowed down with a sense of apprehension and impotence. It is now full of hope and confidence, and of a renewed sense of determination to lead its own life without interference from any influence outside its own frontiers.

“The people are more cheerful. There is a greater sense of general gaiety of spirit throughout the land. It is a happier Germany. I saw it everywhere and Englishmen I met during my trip and who knew Germany well was very impressed with the change.

“One man has accomplished this miracle. He is a born leader of men. His is a magnetic and dynamic personality with a single-minded purpose, as resolute will and a dauntless heart. He is not merely in name but in fact the national leader. He is securing them against the constant dread of starvation, which is one of the most poignant memories of the last years of the war and the first years of the Peace. The fact that Hitler has rescued his country from the fear of repetition of that period of despair, penury and humiliation has given him an unchallenged authority in modern Germany.

“As to his popularity, especially among the youth of Germany, there can be no manner of doubt. The old trust him; the young idolize him. It is not the admiration accorded to a popular leader. It is the worship of a national hero who has saved his country from utter despondence and degradation.

“To those who have actually seen and sensed the way Hitler reigns over the heart and mind of Germany, this description may appear extravagant. All the same, it is the bare truth. This great people will work better, sacrifice more, and, if necessary, fight with greater resolution because Hitler asks them to do so.

“There was a revivalist atmosphere. It had an extraordinary effect in unifying the nation. Catholic and Protestant, Prussian and Bavarian, employer and workman, rich and poor have been consolidated into one people. Religious, provincial and class origins no longer divide the nation. There is a passion for unity born of dire necessity.

“The divisions, which followed the collapse of 1918, made Germany impotent to face the problems, internal and external. That is why the clash of rival passions is not only deprecated but also temporarily suppressed. I found everywhere a fierce and uncompromising hostility to Russian Bolshevism, coupled with a genuine admiration for the British people with a profound desire for a better and friendlier understanding of them. The Germans have definitely made up their minds never to quarrel with us again, nor have they any vindictive feelings towards the French. They have altogether put out of their minds any desire for the restoration of Alsace-Lorraine.

Unlike the British and Americans, the Germans of the Workers Reich were under no illusions about the horrors of Bolshevism.

Trotsky's White Negroes

“However, there is a real hatred and fear of Russian Bolshevism, and unfortunately, it is growing in intensity. It constitutes the driving force of their international and military policy. Their private and public talk is full of it. Wherever you go, you need not wait long before you hear the word 'Bolshevismus', and it recurs again and again with a wearying reiteration. Their eyes are concentrated on the East as if they are watching intently for the breaking of the day of wrath.

“Against it they are preparing with German thoroughness. This fear is not put on. High and low, they are convinced there is every reason for apprehension. They have a dread of the great army that has been built up in Russia in recent years. An exceptionally violent anti-German campaign of abuse printed in the Russian official Press and propelled by the official Moscow radio has revived the suspicion in Germany that the Soviet Government is contemplating mischief.” ~ David Lloyd George, Daily Express, 17.9.1936.

Vienna suicides as the American backed Red Army approaches

German fears of the Allies were not unfounded. As the Allies overran and occupied not just Germany but Central Europe, millions of ordinary people took their own lives rather than fall into the hands of the conquerors.

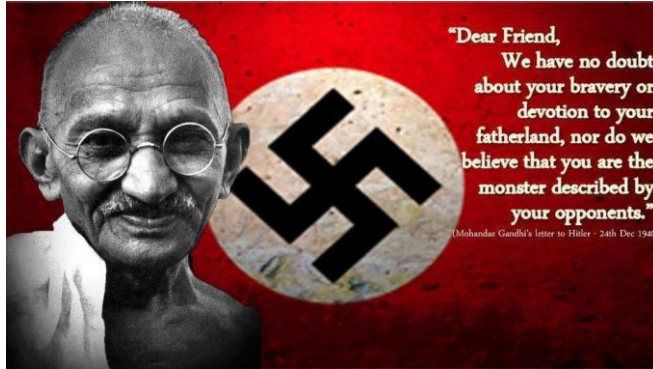

“Youth hostels were opened all over the Reich, enabling us to hike from one beautiful town to another seeing our fatherland. Every effort was made to strengthen our minds and bodies. Contrary to what is said today, we were encouraged to become free in spirit, and not to succumb to peer pressure. In peacetime, no military training was allowed by the Hitler Youth leadership; scouting yes.” ~ Carl Schmidt.

THE LESSON IN THE GARDEN

In his chancellery garden, Adolf Hitler placed a small astronomical observatory. Whenever one of his visitors appeared too full of himself, he would simply direct that person to his telescope and invite him to take a moment to gaze upon the heavens in quiet reflection and contemplation. It was a sobering experience, one which tended to change attitudes.

FAKE NEWS BUT NOT IN HITLER'S GERMANY

“Last July, feeling that the Press of this country was wilfully lying and conducting a political campaign against Germany, I resolved to go to Berlin and make free and independent investigation.

I was determined to do pretty much as I pleased when I got there, and no one interfered with my movements. I found Germany, comparatively speaking, a free country, much freer than some of its neighbours.

My own views were not always acceptable to my many friends, among whom I can count Jews and Gentiles, Nazis and Communists, Democrats and Socialists. Soon I found that being a Nazi does not preclude one holding views that few Labour men in my own country would dare to express to their 'comrades' of the national Labour Party.” ~ G. E. O Knight. In Defence of Germany.

“Germans in their country are not less well cared for than the English people in theirs, but better. You are faced with a country immensely strong in arms and immensely strong in real wealth - not in gold bars in a vault of the national bank, but industry, agriculture, the thrift and energy of the work people, and the conditions of life they enjoy.

In Germany now they have a mighty organization, equipped with full powers, for improving the lot of the work people in factories and workshops.

Their engineers, social workers, and artists go into the factories and see what needs to be done. They say that a shower room, recreation room, a restaurant, a medical clinic, a dental clinic is needed and these were provided. They have a civic sense, a social conscience, a feeling of the community of German mankind.” ~ Douglas Reed, British Writer / Journalist.

By the 1960s Britain and the US were finally catching up to 1930s Workers Germany

"Poland wants war with Germany and Germany will not be able to avoid it even if she wants to."

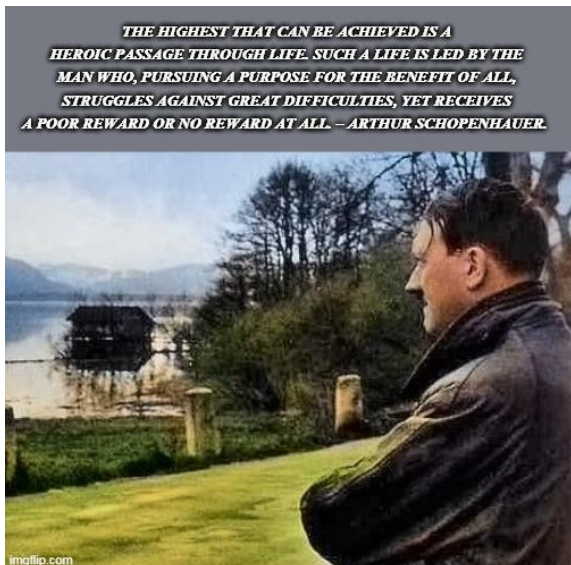

(Polish Marshal Rydz-Smigly as reported in the Daily Mail, August 6th, 1939)

Above is a statement of Poland's intention to wage war on the Workers Reich. It is unlikely one will find reference to this or hundreds of similar bellicose statements of British and Polish intent to wage war on Germany.

However, when questioned, Allies palace journalists are unable to provide a single statement of similar belligerent intent issued by Hitler's Germany. It is presumed that if such existed it would be widely published.

“It was the law that school and church had priority over service in the Hitler Youth. As late as the fall of 1944, the Waffen SS barracks in Breslau supplied two buses to take youth to either the nearest Catholic or Protestant church every Sunday. To be a registered member of a Christian church did not prevent advancement in the National Socialist Party.” ~ Carl Schmidt.

CHAPTER 13 PROTECTION OF ANIMALS

The first of Adolf Hitler's proclamations was his Animal Protection Law. There would be no more torture, testing animals for research of any kind. 1933 also saw the start of the Reich's autobahn under strict conditions to avoid damage to the natural environment.

1936 saw the world's most successful and innovative Olympics ever without a trace of drugs. Free enterprise flourished as never before. Every factory was modernised and was obliged to provide a worker's restaurant and offer food of a healthy and nutritious nature.

Under Hitler the first cancer research laboratories were set up. These showed remarkable success; another bone of contention with Capitalist big pharma that has no real interest is health solutions. All German schoolchildren received free milk and vitamins and regular health examinations.

The largest Jewish cemetery during the Reich was situated in Weissfeld, Berlin. Not once was the sacred place damaged. However, the cemetery and its places of reflection and worship were destroyed by the Allies during the Allied Occupation of Germany.

Germany was National-Socialist but free enterprise flourished during the Hitler years. No company was nationalised. No small businessman was stopped from opening up his own store. I myself worked during the war for a company that can only be called part of international capitalism. If you owned shares, nobody confiscated them, like the allies did in 1945.

RITUAL SLAUGHTER ILLEGAL

The ritual slaughter of animals was prohibited. "The Jews enjoy absolute religious freedom, and the resolution passed by the Zionist Congress in Prague in which the German Government was accused of pursuing a policy of religious persecution towards the Jews was entirely unfounded. The resolution was probably motivated by the fact that the 'Law for the Protection of Animals' prohibited the slaughter of animals according to Jewish rites." ~ Cesare Santoro. Hitler Germany.

Vivisection was banned in National Socialist Germany "The use of truncheons or other methods of violent restraint generally used by police officers were outlawed."

Abortion was illegal and larger families encouraged by couples receiving financial incentives. In the West government campaigns and it offers incentives for couples to lead barren lives; childless gay promiscuity is promoted; abortion is provided free of charge by the state.

CANADIAN PRIME MINISTER

“He (Hitler) smiled very pleasantly and indeed had a sort of appealing and affectionate look in his eyes. My sizing up of the man as I sat and talked with him was that he is really one who truly loves his fellow man.

“His face is much more prepossessing than his pictures would give the impression of. It is not that of a fiery over-strained nature but of a calm, passive man deeply and thoughtfully in earnest. His eyes impressed me most of all. There was a liquid quality about them that indicates keen perception and profound sympathy.

“Calm, composed and one could see how particularly humble folk would have come to have profound love for the man. As I talked with him I could not but think of Joan of Arc.” - William Lyon Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada, soon to be the trusted wartime friend and confidant of Winston Churchill.

READERS INVITATION

LIFE IN THE REICH Mike Walsh. From 1933 the German working class enjoyed a lifestyle superior to that of the rich in the West. Hitler’ s Germany led the world in fashion, medicine, cinema, lifestyle, innovation, manufacturing, transport infrastructure, public facilities, cutting edge science, healthcare and education. Amazon deleted LIFE IN THE REICH because it demolished the victor’ s narrative. READ FREE saves you from paying the book’ s cover price. Michael will send you his bank-to-bank details if you wish to voluntarily transfer or ZELLE a gratuity or make a standing order for as little as £10. Contact Michael at euroman_uk@yahoo.co.uk

CHAPTER 14 MARRIAGE AND CHILDREN

One of the earliest laws passed by Hitler was 'The Law for the Encouragement of Marriage'. This law stated that all newly married couples would get a government loan of 1,000 marks, which was about 9 month's average income. 800,000 new weddings were the result. This loan was not to be simply paid back. Two children meant that 50 per cent of the loan did not need to be paid back; four children meant that the entire loan was considered settled.

Interest free loans of up to 1,000 Deutschmark were paid to newly married couples if the wife has hitherto been a wage earner, relieves the labour market by her marriage. The loan is redeemable at the rate of 1% per month, and for each child born is reduced by 25%. 925,000 newly married couples took advantage of this scheme, and they produced 825,000 children.

An organisation known as 'Mother and Child' was formed to provide for the welfare, health, safety, financial security, and recreation of expectant mothers, mothers and their children. This provided for 26,000 local centres staffed by 227,000 (100,000 voluntary) communal sisters, matrons, governesses, and nurses. Also provided were 160 centres that by 1937 had provided 1,800,000 children with holidays.

A further 308 centres were established for mothers of which there were by 1937, 71,000 who had taken advantage of a break. There were 4,319-day nurseries and kindergartens and 2,700,000 mothers had taken advantage of NSV assistance.

"The programme of our National Socialist Women's Movement has in truth but one single point, and that point is the child, that tiny creature which must be born and should grow strong, for in the child alone the whole life-struggle gains its meaning . . . It is a glorious sight, this golden youth of ours: we know that it is the Germany of the future when we shall be no more. What we create and construct, that youth will maintain. For youth we work; it is that fact which gives its significance to all this effort of ours." - Adolf Hitler, Nuremberg Parteitag, September 8, 1934.

I HAVE NEVER BEEN ABLE TO DISLIKE ADOLF HITLER. HE IS THE MARTYR,
THE VICTIM, THE SELF-SACRIFICING HERO WHO FIGHTS SINGLE-HANDED AGAINST IMPOSSIBLE
ODDS. HE IS FIGHTING AGAINST A DESTINY THAT HE CAN'T WIN, AND YET THAT HE SOMEHOW DESERVES TO. ~ GEORGE ORWELL, BRITISH WRITER.

imgflip.com

HOLIDAYS AND LEISURE IN THE REICH

Before National Socialism, millions of ordinary workers had never seen the inside of a theatre. A survey found 87.6% (men) and 81.3% (women) had never seen an operatic performance whilst 63.8% (men) 72.2% (women) had never visited a theatre.

By 1936, 22,100,000 had visited theatres, 18,600,000 visited film performances, and 5,600,000 attended concerts, 3,300,000 factory exhibitions, 50,000,000 to cultural extravaganzas. 230 colleges for popular/hobby education had been established, 62,000 educational conferences had been attended by 10 million.

It was arranged so that all workers travelled during their holidays on the premise that it was no holiday unless there was a change of air. In two years, there were 384 sea voyages taking 490,000 workers on foreign cruises, more than 60,000 national holiday excursions (19 million participants), 113,000 hiking tours with 3 million participants.

A holiday camp with full holiday facilities was built to accommodate 20,000 people. Every big commercial or public concern was provided with its own sports and recreation grounds, swimming baths. A fleet of yachts was put at the disposal of water sports enthusiasts, likewise winter and summer sports equipment and facilities. Likewise, all factories, offices, stores and shops were fitted out for recreation yards, swimming pools, clean and modern canteens, comradeship houses, sports grounds.

"It is hoped for every worker to have an adequate annual holiday. I saw one of the first holidays special trains leave Berlin with 1,000 workers for Bavarian mountains."
~ H. Powys-Greenwood.

CHAPTER 15 AN ENGLISH WOMAN REFLECTS

RECOLLECTIONS

“The 1930s in England was a time when the government rode roughshod over the working class. In Birkenhead, where my mum and grandparents lived in the 1930s, there was a lot of unemployment. Many working-class people lived in abject poverty.

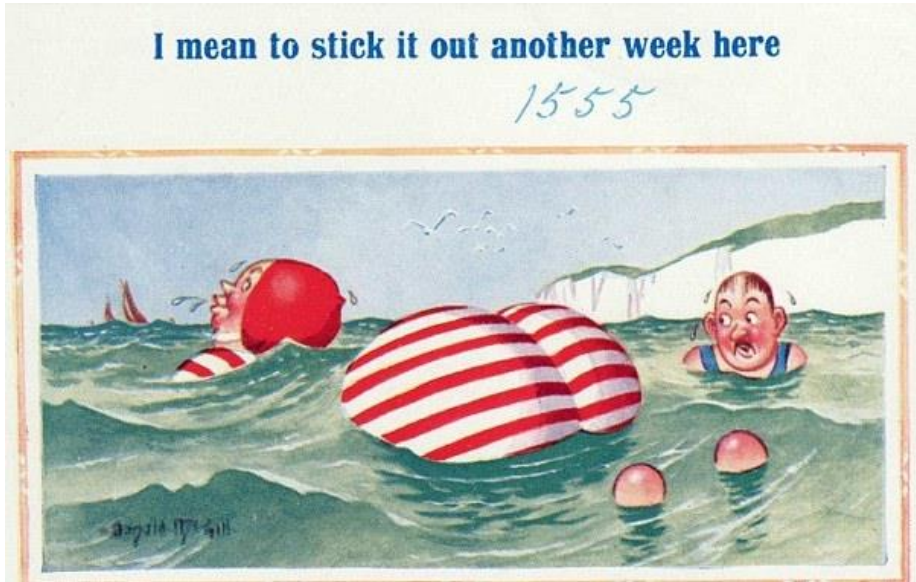

“Workers and the unemployed alike marched in protest. They marched because of the harsh reductions imposed by the government. They were experiencing a huge fall in their already poor living standards. During this period wages were reduced. The already miserably low benefits for the unemployed were also cut back.

“These drastic cuts resulted in millions of the working class living in abject poverty. They were thrown into the most appalling conditions of poverty and deprivation imaginable. The government carried out these attacks all in the name of national economic measures. These economic measures were a vicious attack on their lives and livelihoods.

“While massive reductions were taking place, the government spent millions of pounds on armaments, preparing for a war that would involve the slaughter of millions of the working class. These would include the working class of other countries too and all in the interest of capitalism.

“It was felt that the government and employers had no idea what the imposition of these reductions did. Hard-working families had to live with the harsh effects of less money coming into the home, and it seemed that no-one even cared!”

HOLIDAYS BRITAIN

Before WWII standard practice in Britain was to eject Bed and Breakfast guests after breakfast. The landlord decided at what time they could return. An enterprising Billy Butlin, fed up with such cavalier treatment went on to build holiday camps for British workers.

In 1938, these camps for British workers were seized by the British government to house Jewish immigrants. In 1933, international Jewry declared economic war on Germany. Classed as belligerents, Jews and some other nationalities were deprived of citizenship; many came to Britain. Other camps were commandeered by the British government and used as army camps.

Outside Germany there were few people who could afford even the most humble of holidays. Millworkers in Britain eagerly looked forward to a few days at a beach resort for which they had saved all the year around.

HOLIDAYS GERMANY

By contrast: “Recently the German Labour Front launched its own ships, the Wilhelm Gustloff and the Robert Ley, which were especially built and fitted for such sea trips. It is planned to build about twenty steamers for this purpose.

“The comfort and living conditions in that ship are but little different from those in the great liners. Just as on the great luxurious liners, so the Wilhelm Gustloff and the Robert Ley, you can have your daily baths in fresh water, enjoy hot and cold water in your cabin; drink ice water, swim in a large pool, play in the sports room, enjoy all the deck games and dance in the evening or attend some entertainment.”

Holidays for all were subsidised so all workers could be certain of a holiday that non-Germans could only dream about.

The cost of such trips was 158.37 DM and was limited to workers who earned less than 300 DM a month, with preference going to those who earned less than 200 DM a month. The ordinary worker and his family enjoyed a standard of living that was at the time exclusive to the very rich in America and Britain. In the case of the latter, ordinary workers rarely went to the theatre or concerts.

“Five years of National Socialist constructive work have brought about; the right for every worker to claim a holiday on full pay. Minimum and not maximum holidays are fixed.” ~ Adolf Hitler, Fifth Anniversary Speech.

SEE FOR YOURSELVES

Hitler would occasionally take tea outdoors whilst Churchill dare not do so.

HITLER INVITES GERMANS TO RETURN

“Here I should like to announce a new and still greater scheme: “We intend to bring from overseas those fellow countrymen and their families who otherwise could never have a chance to visit their homeland. Our 'Kraft Durch Freude' fleet will be used for this purpose during the winter months and between the seasons. The cost of such trips will be maintained at a very low rate. These trips will in no way interfere or compete with the existing steamship trade. Those with sufficient means can continue to travel in the ordinary passenger boats to Germany, as formerly.” ~ Adolf Hitler.

“I wish very much that your tourists would visit us not merely when sporting events are on but also that they could visit the country, I mean the whole country. There will be no organised propaganda tours to conceal the truth from them. We shall not tell them that Germany is a paradise, for there is no such thing on earth. However, your tourists can travel here unhampered and complete freedom and see for themselves that Germany lives in peace and order and at work. They will observe our revival, the efforts we are making and our good will for peace. That is all I hope." ~ Adolf Hitler, Paris Soir, January 26 1936.

In 1932 just 41,000 cars and 56,400 motorcycles were registered. In 1937, just 48 months after the election of the NSDAP, 216,000 cars and 234,000 motorcycles were registered. Hitler's Germany added 1,000 km of autobahns each year. Britain's first motorway was opened at Preston 25-years later; it was 12 km in length.

SELF-RELIANCE

To forestall a blockade Germany developed an independent means of production known as the Krupp-Renn Process. This enabled the nation to make use of domestic ore with only 23% to 26% iron content.

There were other benefits too. Money was again kept in Germany and used for domestic interests. Whilst Britain's industries were closed down and investment secured sweatshop labour in the Indian subcontinent German millworkers, auto industry workers, miners, steelworkers and metal-working firms went back to work without their being in debt to capitalist financiers.

The same parasites leaching off British coal miners and steelworkers had investment interests in non-British industries such as those of Poland. Irish American William Joyce, controversially hanged by the victors, exposed one of the reasons for Westminster and the Square Mile declaring war on Germany:

“The City of London, therefore, had more than merely idealistic reasons for supporting the Polish Government. They knew that if the Polish coal-fields passed into German hands, there would be an end of slave-labour and of excessive profits. This principle applies not merely to coal, but to all heavy industry in which National-Socialist Germany may acquire an interest.” ~ William Joyce.

In 1937 340,000 houses were built. Altogether 1,400,000 houses have been put on the housing market since the National Socialists acquired power.”

“Germany’s unforgivable crime before the Second World War was her attempt to extricate her economic power from the world’s trading system and to create her own exchange mechanism which would deny world finance its opportunity to profit.” - Winston Churchill to Baron Robert Boothby, quoted in the foreword, 2nd Ed. Sydney Rogerson, Propaganda in the Next War, 2001.

UNEMPLOYMENT DEFEATED

"It is hoped for every worker to have an adequate annual holiday. I saw one of the first holidays special trains leave Berlin with 1,000 workers for Bavarian mountains."
~ H. Powys-Greenwood.

By 1938 unemployment was a thing of the past. The retired were encouraged to return to their previous occupations to meet the needs of German's economic and productive revival.

"When in the course of the last few years unemployment disappeared in Germany and turned into an even greater shortage of labour, it was impossible for the government to view this impassively, since otherwise there was a danger that some industrial branches would be compelled to restrict their production. Labour reserves today in Germany can be secured by the employment of additional female labour, later retirement, and employment of superfluous independent workers as wage earners in industry. But these reserves are relatively small so that the question arises how to increase efficiency of labour." ~ Congressman Hamilton Fish.

This is a typical street scene in Paris during Germany's defensive occupation of northern France to prevent a British invasion.

Young British women flocked to the Reich to take advantage of a quality of life that simply did not exist in their own country.

“Thousands of Americans, Englishmen and Frenchmen have visited Germany during the months after the national revolution and were able to testify as eyewitnesses that there is no country in the world where law and order are better maintained than in present day Germany.

That there is no country in the world where person and property are held in better respect than in our own, but that there is perhaps also no country in the world where a more rigorous fight is put up against those who believe that they are free to let loose their lower instincts to the detriment of their fellow beings.” ~ Adolf Hitler.

It is up to you to decide that this has lasted long enough, that our boys are dying to serve no British interest but for the interests of a small clique of utterly unscrupulous men.

(John Amery)

John Amery was hanged for his opposition to Churchill's war.

GERMAN PROSPERITY BRITAIN'S PROBLEM

The conciliatory German leader said that he understood that Germany's economic prosperity caused problems. He put forward a proposal that soon, after steps being taken for mutual disarmament, there would be an exchange of opinions on the economic situation in Europe.

The unforgivable sin of Hitler's Germany was to develop a new economic system by which the international bankers were deprived of their profits.

— Winston Churchill —

AZ QUOTES

CHAPTER 16 NO REICH RACISM

Hans Massaquoi grew up in Hitler's Reich. Born on January 19 1926 in Hamburg where his grandfather had been Liberian Consul General, Hans experienced Hitler's rise to power and life in Germany during the war. Contrary to popular myth that coloured people were exterminated or sterilized by the Nazis, Hans (and other non-Europeans) lived happily throughout the duration of the war.

Despite laws which favoured Germans Hans states in his book that he was never persecuted. In fact, Hans gained an apprenticeship as a teenager after attending a job counselling session at a government-run job centre with a member of the SS.

Hans Massaquoi as a child in Hitler's Germany didn't experience racism.

Hans Massaquoi was surprised to be greeted with “a friendly wink”, offered a seat and asked to present an example of his handiwork. After showing the official an axe, he had fashioned at a local blacksmith's forge, Massaquoi was told that he could “be of great service to Germany one day” when technically-qualified Germans would be needed to go to Africa to train and develop a local black workforce as Germany reclaimed its African colonies.

As a teenager in July 1943, Hans survived the near-destruction of Hamburg during the RAF Operation Gomorrah bombing raids that killed 100,000 civilians and wounded 37,000 more. In 1947 Massaquoi emigrated to the United States on a student visa. In 2001 he released his autobiography 'Destined to Witness - Growing up Black in Nazi Germany.'

CHURCHILL WAS A RACIST ADOLF HITLER WAS NOT

“I promise you I am quite free of all racial hatred. It is, in any case, undesirable that one race should mix with other races. Except for a few gratuitous successes, which I am prepared to admit, systematic crossbreeding has never produced good results. Its desire to remain racially pure is a proof of the vitality and good health of a race. Pride in one’s own race – and that does not imply contempt for other races, is also a normal and healthy sentiment.

I have never regarded the Chinese or the Japanese as being inferior to ourselves. They belong to ancient civilizations, and I admit freely that their history is superior to our own. They have the right to be proud of their past, just as we have the right to be proud of the civilization to which we belong. Indeed, I believe the more steadfast the Chinese and the Japanese remain in their pride of race, the easier I shall find it to get on with them.” ~ The Political Testament of Adolf Hitler. 13 February 1945.

There were 120,000 Jews or whom 19 were Generals fighting with the Wehrmacht during World War II. The largest army in European history; the only European army to exceed 1 million men under arms, was the Russian Liberation Army (RLA) that fought under General Andrey Vlasov, a former Red Army general who had saved Moscow before taking up arms against the Bolsheviks.

THE WORLD'S MOST DIVERSE ARMY

Commando Extraordinaire Otto Skorzeny describes the diverse nature of the Waffen-SS in his 1975 memoirs: 'From 1942 European soldiers from many lands and peoples could be found: Albanians, Bosnians, Britons, Bulgarians, Cossacks, Croats, Danes, Dutch, Estonians, Finns, Flemings, French, Georgians, Greeks, Hungarians, Italians, Latvians, Lithuanians, Norwegians, Romanians, Russians, Serbs, Slovaks, Spaniards, Swedes, Swiss, Ukrainians, Walloons, Armenians, Byelorussians, Hindus, Kirghizes, Tartars, Turkmen and Uzbeks served under their own flags in the Waffen-SS. Almost all of these peoples were represented in my unit.' In fact, it was the largest multi-racial fighting force in history! Not to mention also the most religiously diverse as well."

THE SLAVIC PEOPLES

The great English born philosopher, Houston Stewart Chamberlain, authored The Foundations of the 20th Century, which was fundamental to National Socialist thinking. It was Chamberlain who defined Aryan principles in terms of the combination of Nordic, Celtic and Slav peoples of Europe.

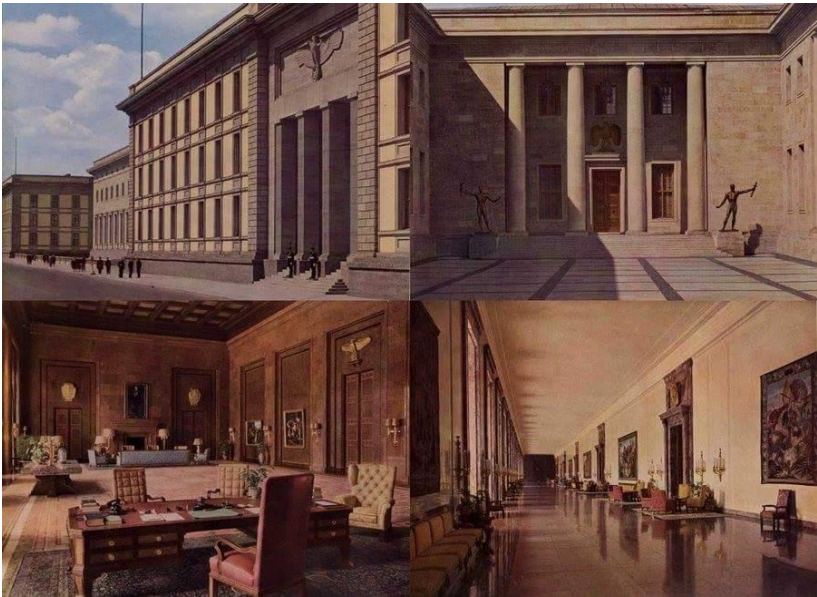

The largest European army in the history of Europe; the only army that numbered over 1 million men under arms, was the Russian and Central European Slav armies that fought for the Workers Reich.

According to the most conservative estimates about 1.5 million Soviet citizens (Slavs) fought for Hitler's Germany. In addition, the Cossacks, Kalmyks, Tatars, North Caucasians, Georgians, peoples of the Baltic States, fought for the Reich for the independence of their nations.

According to researchers D. Zhukov and I. Kovtun, the exact figure of policemen from collaborators in the occupied territories (without the Baltic states) is 330,000 thousand people on January 1, 1943. The overall figure for the Reich's Russian Heroes is likely an incredible 2.5 million men under arms; all of them Slavs.

THE REICH CHANCELLERY

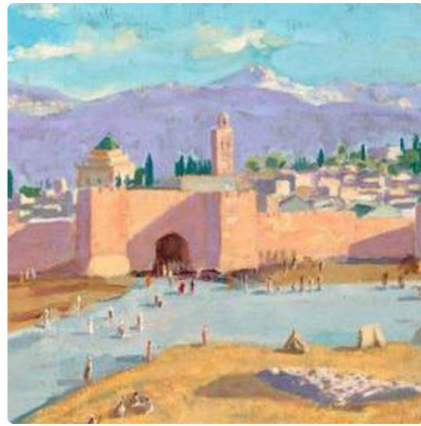

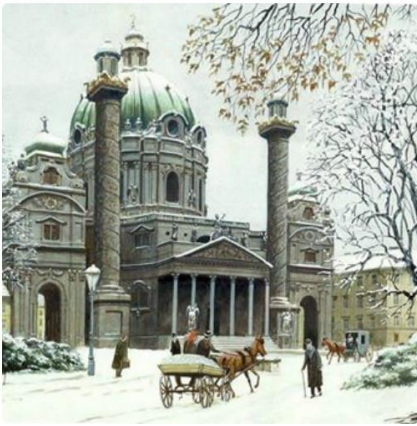

HITLER THE ARTIST

Before amassing his fortune with the enormous royalties from the publication of his hugely popular Mein Kampf, Hitler earned a living by using his artistic skills to produce paintings that were sold to the public or used for postcards.

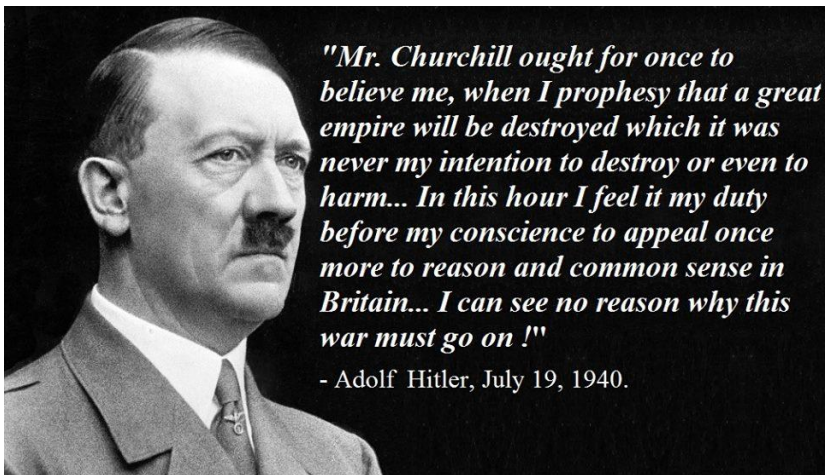

Hitler was a great student of the fine arts and studied music, opera, painting, sculpture, and architecture.

While living in Vienna under conditions of poverty, he read voraciously and still managed to spend whatever meagre income he had to attend lectures, concerts, opera, and the theatre. Even when he barely had enough money to survive, he refused to compromise and always purchased the best paints, brushes, paper, and canvas. As a remarkably prolific artist, he is estimated to have created between 2,000 and 3,000 drawings, watercolours, and oil paintings. His artistic talent revealed itself at an early age and he continued painting and drawing throughout his life.

Hitler was dismissed by Winston Churchill as a house painter. Here is an example of what a real artist can achieve.

LEFT Hitler's artwork RIGHT Churchill's 'artwork'

CHAPTER 17 A GERMAN REFLECTS

“I am happy to inform you about our life in Hitler's time, for today's politicians and mass media are purposefully untruthful about that time. I am a Thüringer who grew up in a farming family with seven children, and I have vividly experienced Hitler's time.

“My profession is that of certified engineer, for which I began my studies in Thüringen. I had a scholarship, since my mother could not provide money for tuition after my father was killed by lightning. Under National Socialism, it was no problem for a member of a numerous family to obtain a scholarship plus living expenses. One had merely to fill out an application. - Friedrich Kurreck.

IN THE WORKPLACE

“The principle is that those who work with their heads and their hands, united with nationally-conscious employers, belong together as a team. This political principle, combined with our retreat from the capitalist gold standard, delivered us from the hopelessness and harm inflicted by the Versailles Dictate. Germany under Hitler was no longer the World War I victors' object of plunder.” - Friedrich Kurreck.

CHAPTER 18 PLUNDERING THE DEFEATED REICH

Blick auf den neuen Dom; rechts das Schloß, links die Burgstraße mit dem Börsengebäude.

It is a myth that the Reich plundered artworks from the occupied territories. The armies of the Reich occupied northern France from June 1940 until spring 1945, a period of nearly five years. A researcher writes:

“What happened is that when I did my research on German art, I decided to write to various museums relating to the alleged (Nazi) plunder. The Hermitage did not answer; neither did any of the Dutch museums. The British museum was disdainful, The Tate Modern was polite and regretted not having any info (how can that be?).

The German museums refused to answer, but the Louvre did reply and said that their artworks had remained untouched during the German Occupation.

I don't remember about the American museums, but recall the Los Angeles Museum sending me some trash and the Norton Simon Museum in Pasadena also, being less than helpful.” - Gerard Frederick.

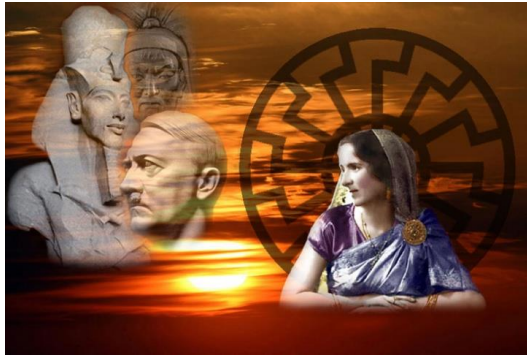

NOTE: Ransacking the Reich and The Red Brigands are two illustrated Mike Walsh titles that describe the inventory of plundered German assets. Both are available from Amazon.

During the war at least seven million foreign nationals (nearly 10% of the population) worked in Germany, either as voluntary workers (Dutch, Danes, French, Poles, Ukrainians etc.), or as forced labourers or as prisoners. I know of no instance where foreigners were attacked or molested (much less killed) because they were foreigners. Speaking of the press, I have an article from 1943 in my possession that spells out how necessary friendship is between the German and Russian peoples.

CHAPTER 19 GREAT MINDS THINK ALIKE

SAVITRI DEVI

“There was a time when the personality of Adolf Hitler dominated European consciousness; when his voice stirred millions; when he used to pass by, on solemn occasions, cheered by millions, the idol of the nation whom he had raised from the abyss to unparalleled greatness.” ~ Savitri Devi, 'Gold in the Furnace', 1952

CARL JUNG

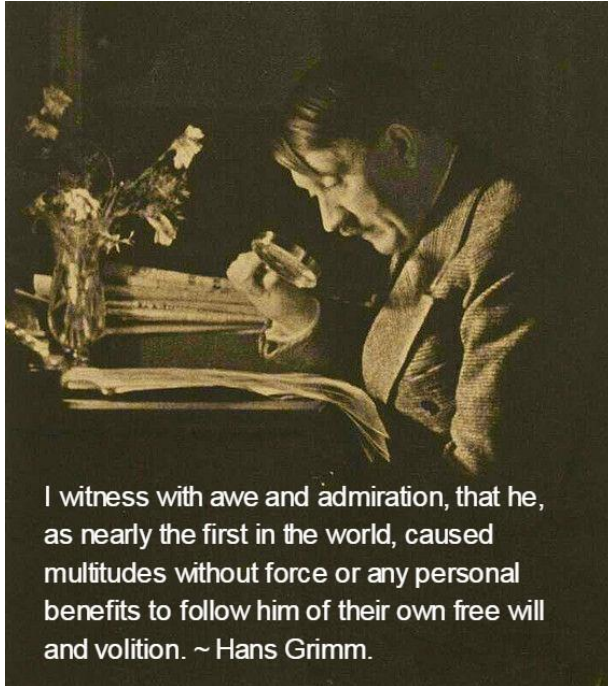

MIGUEL SERRANO

Miguel Serrano in an interview before the war compared Adolf Hitler to Mohammed. “Do we consider Mohammed a politician? He was a prophet with enormous political repercussions in the world. I consider Adolf Hitler to be the greatest figure in the world, and the repercussions of his visions, thoughts and action would be impossible to calculate today. If we were to think in Indo-Aryan fashion, as Savitri Devi did, we must see in Hitler an incarnation of the divinity, an Avatar, as in the title of my book Adolf Hitler: The Last Avatar.

HIS WORK WILL LIVE ON

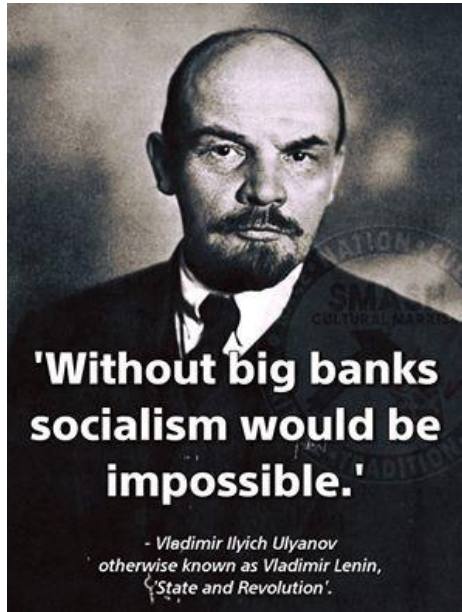

“Today I would like to keep a deep and indelible memory of Adolf Hitler and consider him to be one of the greatest people that world history has possessed. Now he is dead. But his work will live on. He turned Germany into a world power. Now is this Germany on the brink of disaster, because his opponents could not stand his growing strength and power. But a nation of 80 million that for six years has kept Japan's stand against the whole world except, can never be destroyed. The memory of the great leader will live on thousands of years in the German people.” ~ Sven Hedin in the Swedish daily newspaper Dagens Nyheter, May 2, 1945.

Western corporations were quick to take advantage of Imperial Russia's vast resources. The nation's gold reserves, the largest in the world, disappeared into the bank vaults of the West. The entire Gulag system and Stalin's 5-Year Plans, in which it is estimated 40 million slaves perished, were made possible and accessible by western banks and corporations.

Those in on the kill included Ford, Amtorg Trading Corporation, General Electric, RCA, International Harvester Tractors, and Caterpillar; in all over 100 U.S. corporations were reaping vast profits from Stalin's slave empire.

HITLER: “This Soviet Russia toils perpetually along on the arm of the capitalist States. She took from them her workers, her engineers, her machines: she drew everything from the capitalists' states. Communists were surviving only on the non-communist institutions of the world.”

PRAISE AND PENALTIES

In 2003 David Raub, the president of Chicago's Glenview State Bank, was pressured to step down after making comments in which he praised the economic policies of Adolf Hitler in his bank's online newsletter. Here's his statement:

"The Great Depression of the 1930s saw falling prices, staggering unemployment and shattered stock markets all over the world, and the world's leading statesmen seemed helpless to defeat it, except for one. His name was Adolf Hitler."¹_{SEP}

"The root cause of war was Hitler's successful attempt to establish a new economy. The roots of the war were envy, greed and fear. Churchill lit the fuse that led to an explosion of war; destruction and terror the likes of which has not been seen since the Turkish invasions." ~ General C. J. F Fuller.

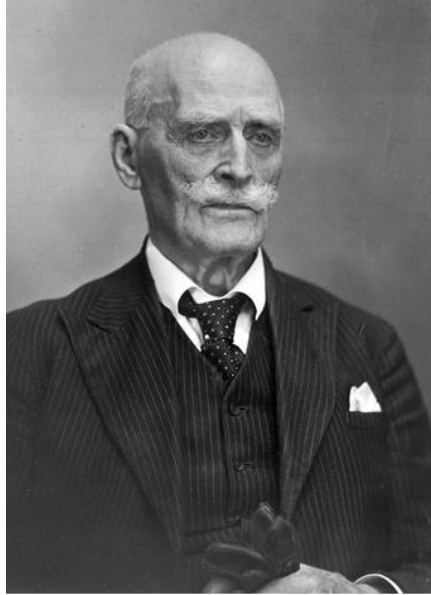

In 1920 Knut Hamsun was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature. "Hamsun taught me to write," said Ernest Hemingway."

The roll-call of iconic giants of literature, who revered Knut Hamsun, includes Isaac Bashevis Singer, "The whole modern school of fiction in the twentieth century stems from Hamsun."

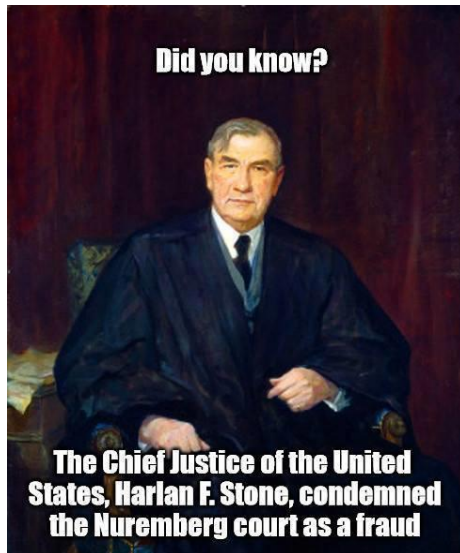

Knut Hamsun also mentored Franz Kafka, Leo Tolstoy, Stefan Zweig, Henry Miller, Hermann Hesse and many others of similar renown. Thomas Mann described Knut Hamsun as, "A descendant of Fyodor Dostoevsky and Friedrich Nietzsche."

"I'm not worthy to speak up for Adolf Hitler and his life and deeds do not invite sentimental rousing. Hitler was a warrior, a warrior for humankind and a preacher of the gospel of justice for all nations. He was a reforming character of the highest order, and his historical fate was that he functioned in a time of unequalled brutality, which in the end felled him. Thus, may the ordinary Western European look at Adolf Hitler. And we, his close followers, bow our heads at his death....” ~ Knut Hamsun, leading Norwegian author upon the death of Hitler in 1945.

Nobel Prize for Literature Knut Hamsun

“He (Adolf Hitler) has a supreme intellect. I have known only two other men to whom I could apply such distinction, Lord Northcliffe and Lloyd George.

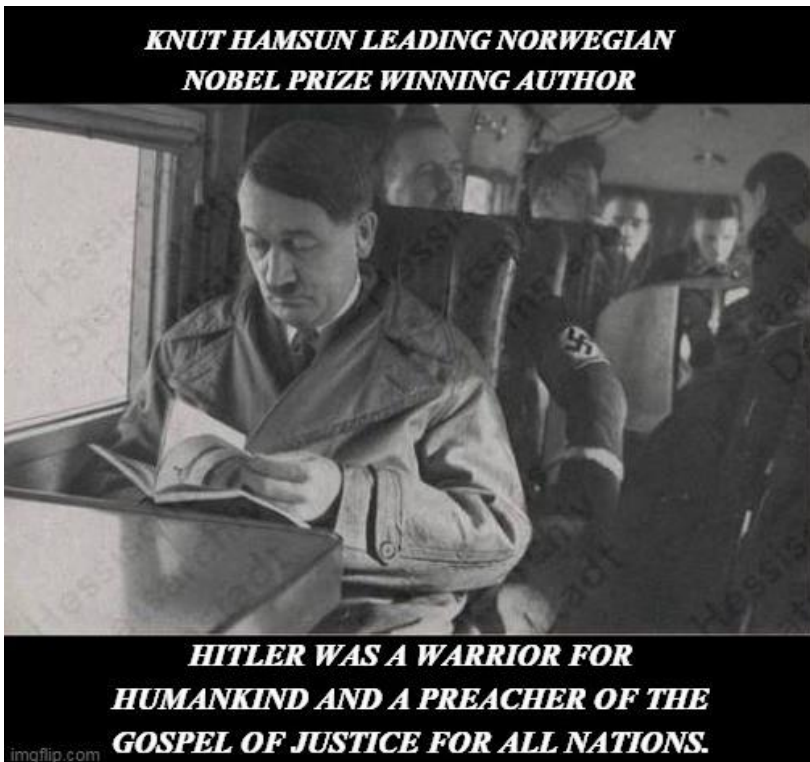

“If one puts a question to Hitler, he gives an immediate, brilliant, clear answer. There is no human being living whose promise on important matters I would trust more readily.

“He believes that Germany has a Divine calling and that the German people are destined to save Europe from the revolutionary attacks of Communism.

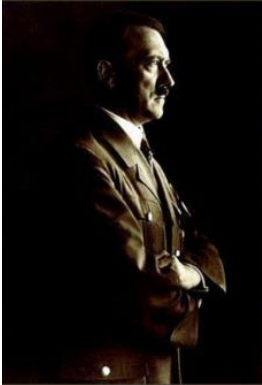

“He values family life very highly, whereas Communism is its worst enemy. He has thoroughly cleansed the moral, ethical life of Germany.

“No words can describe his politeness; he disarms men as well as women and can win both at any time with his conciliatory, pleasant smile. He is a man of rare culture. “His knowledge of music, the arts, and architecture is profound.” ~ Harold Sidney Harmsworth, 1st Viscount Rothermere, British newspaper editor and writer.

“We painted Hitler as a monster, a devil. And that’s why we could not move away from that portrayal after the war. We had mobilized the masses against the devil incarnate. And so, we were forced to continue in this satanic scenario after the war. We could not possibly have explained to our people that the war had actually been only a preventative economic measure.” ~ James Addison Baker, US Secretary of State.

THE MAN THE BANKERS HATE AND FEAR THE MOST

EXPOSE THE LIES OF THE CORRUPT
BY KEEPING HIS NAME AND DEEDS ALIVE

imgflip.com

WARS OF CHURCHILL, STALIN AND ROOSEVELT

The death toll World War Two: Germany 16 million. Soviet Union 13.6 million. China 1.3 million. Japan 1.3 million. Romania 350,000. Yugoslavia 305,000. USA 292,000. United Kingdom 264,000. France 213,000. Hungary 200,000. Poland 123,000. Greece 88,000. Finland 82,000. Canada 37,000. India 24,000. Australia 23,000. Belgium 12,000. Czechoslovakia 10,000. Bulgaria 10,000. New Zealand 10,000. Netherlands 8,000. South Africa 6,000. Norway 3,000. Denmark 1,800. Brazil 943.

IT TOOK THREE EMPIRES BRITISH, SOVIET AND AMERICAN 12.5 YEARS TO DEMONISE, DEFEAT AND PLUNDER ONE NATION SMALLER THAN TEXAS. THEY CALL THIS VICTORY

PICKING UP THE BATON DROPPED

“In rare instances, such as that of Jesus Christ, great figures achieve immortality watered by their time on earth but warmed by the sun of posterity. As with Jesus Christ the persona of Adolf Hitler will grow in stature and spread by influence until He too is revered throughout the world.” ~ Michael Walsh.

“Today, our Race is faced with a worldwide existential threat. We can ill-afford the intra-Aryan ethnic tensions and rivalries that characterized pre-1939 Europe.

Only the National-Socialism of Adolf Hitler is strategically and ideologically equipped to ensure the survival of our respective Aryan peoples, and to lead them to victory. German and Slav, Celt and Mediterranean: all must come together in a spirit of racial solidarity. We must move beyond the ethnic troubles of the past, and unite around the Swastika banner.

In this connection, White brothers and sisters the world over need to see Adolf Hitler as more than a German political leader of a bygone era, but rather as the champion of Aryan destiny. His eternal message of racial salvation transcends the barriers of time and space, and exceeds the narrow historical limitations into which he was born.”

~ James Harting.

FURTHER READING

Michael Walsh is Britain's most creative and successful multi-topical author. His 70 refreshingly new perspective book titles enjoy a worldwide following.

REAL HISTORY

HISTORY BUFFS will discover a refreshing change from war victors' spin. Look out for bestsellers Witness to History, The Thinking Man's Hitler, My Last Testament Let God Judge Me, The All Lies Invasion Volume I and Volume II, Reich and Wrong, Uncensored Adolf Hitler, Odyssey Adolf Hitler, Heroes Hang when Traitors Triumph, Heroes of the Reich, The Fuhrer's Proclamation To the German People: The Reich Declaration of War on the USSR, Ransacking the Reich, The Red Brigands, Holy Book of Adolf Hitler, Death of a City, Art of Adolf Hitler, Sculptures of the Third Reich Volumes I, II and III Porcelain and Reich Sculptors and similar titles.

Contact Michael by email: keyboardcosmetics@gmail.com

READERS INVITATION

LIFE IN THE REICH Mike Walsh. From 1933 the German working class enjoyed a lifestyle superior to that of the rich in the West. Hitler's Germany led the world in fashion, medicine, cinema, lifestyle, innovation, manufacturing, transport infrastructure, public facilities, cutting edge science, healthcare and education. Amazon deleted LIFE IN THE REICH because it demolished the victor's narrative.

READ FREE saves you from paying the book's cover price. Michael will send you his bank-to-bank details if you wish to voluntarily transfer or ZELLE a gratuity or make a standing order for as little as £10. Contact Michael at euroman_uk@yahoo.co.uk

